SIMMONS' LOSS OF SEAT IS LAID TO 1928 BOLT

Veteran Senator Grants North Carolina Victory to Josiah Bailey.

Dethroned Czar of State Scouts Rumor He Will Run Independently.

REPUBLICANS READY TO WAGE HARD FIGHT

Butler, Brother of Ancient Simmons Rival, Leading in G. O. P. Primary.

Charlotte, N. C., June 8 (A.P.).—Furnifold M. Simmons, United States senator from North Carolina, yesterday joined Senators Grundy, of Pennsylvania, and Deneen, of Illinois, in defeat for renomination.

The veteran Tarheel legislator, who has been virtual dictator of the Democratic party in the State since he defeated Senator Marion Butler, Republican, in 1900, was snowed under by Josiah W. Bailey, Raleigh attorney, by a majority of around 70,000 votes. The switch is regarded in the State as entirely due to the fact that Senator Simmons in 1928 refused to support Alfred E. Smith, Democratic nominee for President, and threw his influence to Herbert Hoover, the State going Republican nationally for the first time in a third of a century. Mr. Bailey entered the primary with the avowed intention of "punishing" Simmons.

With 1,513 precincts out of the 1,799 in the State giving Mr. Bailey 178,860 votes to 117,960 for Mr. Simmons, the venerable North Carolina senator told the Associated Press from his home in Newbern that "to the best of my knowledge from returns I have received, I have been defeated."

Won't Run Independently.

Senator Simmons ridiculed predictions that he might run as an independent.

While Senator Simmons was being defeated within the Democratic party, George E. Butler, of Clinton, a brother of the man Senator Simmons defeated in the general election of 1900, was running ahead in the Republican primary for nomination for United States Senator to oppose Mr. Bailey. Mr. Butler and Representative George M. Pritchard, of Asheville, were so close together with about one-fourth of the State reported, however, that it was regarded as likely that a run-off primary would be necessary.

The vote in the Republican primary in 484 precincts was, Butler, 2,915; Pritchard, 2,306; Irvin B. Tucker, 902; H. Grady Dorsett, 404. The vote was very light.

In the defeat of Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, for renomination Saturday, the Senate loses its dean.

The North Carolina Democrat will complete 30 years of continuous service in the Senate at the expiration of his term next March 4. He is 76 years old.

As the ranking Democrat on the finance committee, Senator Simmons has been the minority leader in the Senate since the war in tariff and revenue legislation battles. He was chairman of this powerful committee during the Wilson war-time administration.

Referred to by some of his friends as "the little giant," Senator Simmons' influence in Senate affairs was recognized. Despite his age he has been a leader in the fight of the Senate coalition in the pending tariff struggle in opposition to the Republican measure.

News of the defeat of the veteran North Carolinian came somewhat as a

Unidentified S O S Heard in New York

Coast Guard Ship Report Indicates Alleghany May Be Distressed.

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—The New York station of the Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co. tonight reported receipt of an S O S call from an undetermined source. The radio station said many ships were communicating by radio with the S. S. Alleghany, of the Merchants & Miners Transportation Co. of Baltimore, but that the messages did not indicate whether the Alleghany was in distress or whether it was some other ship.

Later the Coast Guard vessel Diligent reported that the S O S had been "cleared up," but asked the station to keep a close watch for messages concerning the Alleghany. An earlier message from the Diligent said the Alleghany was in trouble.

National Guardsmen Win in Three Battles, Killing Dozen of Enemy.

GOVERNMENT LOSS NIL

Managua, Nicaragua, June 8 (A.P.).—Gen. Douglas McDougal, commander of the Nicaraguan national guard, announced tonight that the recently launched offensive against banditry had resulted in three engagements in as many days, with twelve bandits killed and at least nine wounded. The guard had no casualties.

Gen. McDougal said the guardsmen, officered by United States Marines, were scouring the hills and jungles of the northern sector, forcing the bandits to fight in their own haunts.

The first battle occurred June 5. Capt. Pagin, with a small detachment engaged a group of 40 bandits at a point between Palacaguina and the Yali range, in the department of Jinotega. After a 15-minute fight the bandits fled, leaving two wounded.

Capt. Puller and Lieut. Lee, with 35 guards, charged up a hill in a hot fight against another group the next day. Seven were killed, including the leader, Marcial Rivera. The number of wounded was not determined. This fight was at Los Cedros, west of Mount Guapinol in the department of Matagalpa.

The third battle occurred June 7 at Mancalian, just east of La Trinidad in the department of Esteli. Lieut. Cobb with a small guard detachment surprised 59 bandits under the chieftain Pedro Blandon, killing five and wounding seven.

Supplies and arms were captured in all three engagements.

Bullet Narrowly Misses Preacher

Stray Missile Hits Wall of Church, but Fails to Halt Sermon.

Even a rifle bullet which narrowly missed the Rev. L. P. Atkins, pastor of the Andrew Chapel Methodist Church, Fairfax County, Va., failed to interrupt his sermon yesterday morning. The bullet tore its way through a front window and was buried in a panel behind the pulpit.

The minister continued preaching, and only a few members of the congregation realized what had happened.

Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity, who made an investigation after the service, reported that the bullet was believed to have come from a rifle with which boys were playing. No further action will be taken.

Former Capital Man Kiled in Auto Crash

Macon, Ga., June 8 (A.P.).—Harry Billings, 67 years old, who retired about three years ago from the Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C., after 30 years of service, was killed this afternoon when his automobile plunged over an embankment 5 miles west of Gray. His neck was broken.

Another delicate diplomatic situation is confronting the State Department with the growing military activity in China of the so-called Northern coalition against the forces of the Nanking government.

The problem which now has arisen is caused by the recognition by the principal governments of the Nanking government as the ruling regime in China. The advance of the Northern troops southward and the coalition establishment at Peiping (Peking) of a diplomatic mission has created a delicate situation for the foreign envoys on the ground.

Dispatches reaching the State Department have disclosed that Nelson T. Johnson, the American Minister, and his colleagues of the Diplomatic Corps are spending much of their time in Nanking—the seat of the Southern government—to keep from dealing directly with the Northern diplomatic representative in the old capital of China.

With the ever present possibility that the current struggle may establish a new regime in China, the diplomats are loath to ignore completely a Northern representative if they are in residence in Peiping. On the other hand, their governments have recognized the Southern regime and they must continue to deal with it as long as it maintains responsible control of so large a part of China as it now does.

Old Leaders in Alliance.

This latest civil war is being waged over a concentrated area with Tsinan as its center, more than 1,000,000 troops being potentially available. The Northern strength has come about through an alliance of the old-time crusader general, Feng Yu-Hsiang, the so-called Christian general, and Gen. Yen Hsi-Shan, war lord of the prosperous Shansi Province. The Southern troops are being led by Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, nominal president of China.

The Northern diplomatic representative, a commissioner in rank, already has publicly indicated he expects the new Northern government to organize fully in the old capital, and has delivered to the foreign missions in Peiping a statement by Gen. Yen that he will be completely responsible for the protection of foreign lives and property in the area. Records of the State Department last night showed there are 2,617 Americans in the areas affected by the military campaigns. In some of these areas, American consular agents and representatives are urging citizens of the United States to leave for places of safety.

Object of Campaign.

Minister Wu, of China, told the Associated Press yesterday he had complete confidence in the ability of the Southern government to withstand the Northern onslaught.

Students of Chinese affairs described the Yen-Feng campaign as not one looking toward the overthrow of the Chinese Nationalist movement instituted by the Nanking

LABOR EDITOR URGES PAY RAISE PASSAGE

Amendments of Simmons Are Bitterly Opposed by Federation Man.

BRANDED AS FORCE RULE

Congress was exhorted to speedily pass the police and firemen's pay raise bill, minus the amendments proposed by Representative Robert G. Simmons, Nebraska Republican, in a statement issued yesterday for the American Federation of Labor by John B. Colpoys, editor of the Trades Unitonist, official publication for organized labor here.

"The ranks of the American Federation of Latbor and American citizenry in general are exhibiting a real interest in the fate of the bill, now tied up in Congress by the wilful opposition of a single representative," Mr. Colpoys declared. "Organized latbor akes a vital interest in its passage because it would establish a living American wage scale for the policemen and firemen and the people generally share this interest, because of the fight over this bill represents a battle for American principles and self-government.

"When the bill was before the House District committee, William Roberts, personal representative of resident Wiliam Green, of the American Federation of Labor, appeared to urge its passage. He stated the only objection organized labor had against the bill was that it suggested scales of pay for privates were not high enough. He otherwise indorsed the bill and urged its enactment without amendment. Certainly, the American Federation of Labor is opposed to the amendments suggested in the House.

"We hope Congress will never accept these amendments. They violate the very spirit of pension legislation and would restore a system eliminated from all first class cities of the Nation by popular vote of the people. They are opposed by the tax-paying public of Washington. Indeed, the Central Trades Union, representing

Committee Head Expected to Retire During Summer.

GOT INTO TROUBLE IN SENATE INQUIRY

Postmaster General Brown and Hoover Secretary Are Mentioned.

(Associated Press.)

Republicans high in party councils apparently believe the retirement of Claudius Huston as chairman of the national committee is imminent, for they are casting about for a successor. Friends of the Republican party leader look for his retirement some time this summer, probably after Congress adjourns, but apparently President Hoover and the party chieftains have not agreed so far on a new pilot.

Several names have come up for discussion in conferences looking to selection of a successor, and it is known Mr. Hoover is taking an active interest in the discussions.

Mr. Huston got into difficulties when his testimony before the Senate lobby committee showed he had solicited funds as president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association in behalf of Muscle Shoals legislative activity and used these funds in his brokerage account before turning them over to the association.

Flatly Refused to Resign.

However, the national chairman at a recent conference of party leaders flatly refused to resign while under the fire of the lobby committee. Just how his retirement would come about is unknown.

It is known that President Hoover has not asked for his resignation. If he gives up his post, it is believed that it will be voluntarily.

Walter Newton, executive secretary to President Hoover, and Walter F. Brown, the Postmaster General, are among those most frequently mentioned in the discussion over a successor to Huston.

However, there is no indication of any choice. The two veteran party leaders in Congress, Senators Watson, of Indiana, and Moses, of New Hampshire, are mentioned.

CAROL, WHO GAVE UP THRONE FOR WOMAN, MADE ROUMANIA KING

Boy King Michael Returns to Nursery as Father Resumes Throne.

VOTE OF PARLIAMENT ALMOST UNANIMOUS

Prince's Royal Rights Are Restored by Special Senate Session.

CAPITAL ACCLAIMS PRODIGAL MONARCH

200,000 Cheering Subjects Line Streets to Greet New Ruler.

Prince Carol (upper left), who recovered throne he gave up for a woman. Princess Helen (lower left), divorced wife of Carol, and Prince Michael, their son, who returns to the nursery from the throne room.

Bucharest, June 8 (A.P.).—Carol Caraiman, citizen, today became King Carol II of Roumania by a vote of the Roumanian Parliament, which lacked only one of being unanimous. Thus the first successful airplane coup d'etat in history became a spectacular and constitutional conclusion.

A man who renounced his royal rights January 4, 1926, and went into exile with a woman companion now wears the crown of his fathers. His son, Michael, the boy king, who has ruled with a regency council, returns to his sandbox and velocipede with the status of crown price, and there are indications that King Carol's divorce from Princess Helen, mother of Michael, will be annulled for reasons of state.

Royal Rights Restored.

The accession of the former crown prince occasioned a wildly enthusiastic popular demonstration. Amid splendid weather the city was gaily decorated, and 200,000 cheering subjects lined the 2-mile route from the royal Cotrecini Palace to the Chamber of Deputies when the prodigal prince moved in a state procession to take the oath as Carol II.

King Carol's royal rights were restored by a special session of the Senate this morning. Then, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the National Assembly of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies was solemnly opened to consider the proclamation as king.

The first speaker was Prof. Nicholas Orga, once Carol's tutor, his friend through prosperity and adversity.

Declares Banishment Monstrosity.

With his voice choking with emotion, Prof. Jorga declared that the decree of January 4, 1926, which banished Carol was a monstrosity.

"It was wrung from the late King Ferdinand, the victim of intrigues, by Carol's enemies, and signed by the king with trembling hands and tear-filled eyes," he exclaimed. "The act was also illegal because the prince could not renounce the succession, which had not yet been opened. Today reparation is due Carol. It is also due Roumania for the fate of the country and the dynasty."

The entire house arose and cheered, and when a ballot was taken on the restoration of rights 486 favored it. Only one negative vote was cast, this by M. Bratianu, Liberal leader.

"Long Live King Carol II."

A proposal by the Deputy Bunian then was read, asking the Assembly immediately to proclaim Carol King Carol II. Julio Maniu, former premier, in a stirring address as leader of the National Peasant party, approved the proposal, and was followed by representatives of the other parties.

The proclamation was made immediately after the vote while the cheering legislators shouted "long live King Carol II!" the cry reached the immense hrongs outside and was taken up by hem, sounding like the organized cheering of American political parties at national conventions.

As its final act the Assembly made the former boy king, Michael, the hereditary successor, giving him the

CHURCH SING BROKEN UP

Europa, Mis., June 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Lee M. Ferguson, 45, was fatally wounded at a community singing near here today by her husband, a magistrate, who percipitated a pitched battle by his attempt to search the car of two youths for liquor. One of the youths, Tom Elkins, 19, was shot through the lung and was not expected to live. Another man was shot and two others were slugged.

Hearing the gunshots which threw into turmoil a large crowd of farmers, their wives and children, Mrs. Ferguson ran toward her husband and into his line of fire. She died soon afterward.

Elkins and another youth, Watts Bowen, sat in a car on the church grounds, crowded by the throng there for an annual singing and church festival, a big item in the social life of this rural section. Some estimated the attendance exceeded 1,000.

Magistrate Ferguson and two deputies, Bunyan Putnam and A. Y. Vaugh, believed the youths were drinking and started a search of the car. Elkins was said to have demanded a search warrant.

While friends led the protesting Bowen away, Elkins either fell or was knocked from the car. Others of the gathering said he was shot as he lay on the ground. A bullet penetrated one of his lungs and he was taken to a Houston, Miss., hospital.

Sim J. Sewalk 65, a bystander, was shot through the knees. In the free-for-all battle which attending the shootings, T. D. Castle, 18, and Archie Morris, 23, were slugged with gun butts.

Sheriff John Gary began an investigation. Ferguson went to his home.

BYRD'S ENTIRE CREW TO SHARE IN HONORS

Men Will Come Here to See Hoover Give Geographic Society's Medal.

JUNE 20 PICKED AS DATE

President Hoover will present the National Geographic Society's special gold medal to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd before a notable audience at the Washington Auditorium Friday evening, June 20. The ceremonies will be broadcast over a Nation-wide hook-up of the National Broadcasting Co.

Admiral Byrd will make his first report of the scientific work of his expedition, and the first showing will be given of the remarkable motion picture depicting every phase of the expedition's explorations.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, who has just returned from Europe, will preside, and on the platform will be the 42 men who spent sixteen months in the Antarctic, and some 30 more men who performed vital service to the expedition in New Zealand and in getting supplies to the expedition through the ice-ringed Antarctic seas. A special medal of honor was designed for Admiral Byrd because he already has been the recipient of the society's Hubbard gold medal, awarded to only eight men in the 42 years of the society's history.

The inscription on the special gold medal reads: "Richard Evelyn Byrd, Rear Admiral, U. S. N. He made distinguished contributions to knowledge of Antarctica and was first to reach the geographical South Pole by air, November 29, 1929."

The medal bears on the side with the legend a bas relief portrait of Admiral Byrd, and on the reverse side

Business in Washington

By W. CLARENCE MILLER,
President, W. C. & A. N. Miller Development Corporation.

The mob psychology which was so noticeable last fall as a result of the Wall street debacle has persisted to some extent in the minds of many who believe that business has gone to the dogs. I think the key to the whole situation is a lack of imagination and initiative on the part of those who are not finding business so good this year.

Our own business now is ahead of last year's, which was a record. We have sold every finished house we had on hand, and are endeavoring to complete some for the present market. We find prospects are answering our advertisements, and that, generally speaking, there is more cash available at the present time than there has been for some years.

People are demanding the best of materials and workmanship today, as well as individuality of design, and the builder who neglects to satisfy the demand of the public in any one of these particulars probably will find his product hard to dispose of.

The normal number of new houses for sale in the District is 1,200. The greatest number on hand at any one time was in June, 1927, when there were 1,534. On June 1, 1930, there were available only 1,011, which is almost the lowest figure for the past five years. Sales records for the first five months in 1930 were 476 new houses, as against 442 for the same period in 1929, before the October collapse.

It is estimated that not more than 800 new homes will be built here in 1930, and that sales will approximate 1,400, leaving only 400 new houses on hand by January 1, 1931. Of the stock of houses now on hand, probably 200 have been standing still for the past three years as a result of operative failures of builders new in this market and unfamiliar with local conditions or requirements.

The market for good homes is excellent. This is the most advantageous time to buy because of the psychological state of mind of some builders. But there is no depreciation and by fall I doubt whether we shall be able to satisfy the demand for new homes in the District.

Harris & Ewing.
W. C. MILLER.

Real estate values continue to mount, although the used house market is not as active as it has been, because almost every one here expects his property to appreciate in value rather than depreciate. While this is true of ground values, it never can be true of house values, as depreciation always must be charged against any used article; the trouble is that many people do not put realty on a parity with other commodities, but are disappointed if, after using a home for as long as it satisfies them, they can not sell the obsolete article at a price higher than its original value.

There is every reason to be optimistic concerning our business here, for we are the Capital of the wealthiest nation on earth, and as the Nation prospers so must we in Washington. If you believe in America, you must have confidence in that vital spot from which it is governed.

Guide Issued by LaGuardia On Making Wines at Home

New York Representative Tells Constituents How Nonintoxicating Vinuous Beverages and Home-Brewed Liquors May Legally Be Produced.

(Associated Press)

A guide to his constituents on how to make "nonintoxicating wine and home-brew" and not run counter to the prohibition law has been issued by Representative LaGuardia, (Republican), New York, wet, on the basis of a bulletin from the Agriculture Department on "unfermented grape juice; how to make it in the home."

The bulletin, he said, described various kinds of "juice" from eubfandel to alicante and reisling with all the "intervening brands still fresh in the memory of the gourmand," and how to make them.

The rules laid down by LaGuardia include:

"The beverage must be made in the home and consumed in the home. It cannot be transported. It can be made only in quantities in keeping with the size of the family, and cannot be given to strangers or sold to friends.

"The home must be used exclusively for dwelling purposes. The beverage must be nonintoxicating in

Mothers Living Side by Side Lose Their Sons Within Week

Auto Crash and Fall at Hospital Bring Grief to Two Households in Twenty-Third Street; One Victim Was 26, Other Only 15.

A week ago Mrs. Anna G. Bell, of 624 Twenty-third street northwest, heard that her next door neighbor, Mrs. Bridget Flanagan, at 626 Twenty-third street, had lost her son, James, in an auto accident. With quick womanly sympathy she went to offer what consolation she could.

Last night Mrs. Flanagan left her house hurriedly and went next door. She had just heard that young Francis Bell was dead in a fall. With her own loss fresh in her mind, she knew doubly well the pain of a death. So last night she sat in a darkened room, striving to relieve the anguish of another woman robbed of her son.

Francis Bell was only 15 years old when he died at Naval Hospital, Saturday, when he fell from the wall surrounding the reservation of the institution. It was thought that his injuries were not serious. But an X-ray later showed that his skull was fractured. And last night he died.

James Flanagan was only 26 when he died, killed almost instantly when his auto hit a culvert on a road near Oaklands, Md. Now darkness sits on the two houses side by side on Twenty-third street.

title "Grand Voivode," and creating him Duke of Alba Julia.

Then, arrayed in the full dress uniform of a general, the new king left Cotrecini Palace with an escort of cavalry to take the oath, while the populace en route acclaimed him wildly. Accompanying him were his brother, Prince Nicholas, and high officials. Arriving at the Parliament House while airplanes circled overhead, Carol entered the building with a tremendous ovation.

He took the oath, administered by the Patriarch Myron Christea, a member of the former regency council, and received his first congratulation from Nicholas, who is regarded as having been a leading figure in plans for Carol's return by airplane Friday.

The royal proclamation of King Carol II followed, the king delivering it personally and causing it to be placarded on billboards throughout Bucharest later. Its chief feature was the granting of amnesty to all political prisoners, but he said among other things that he had returned to serve his country and that he harbored no vengeance against any one. "Not even against those who sought by calumnies to place a veil between me and my people."

Would Develop Army.

He ended with an appeal for all religious and political groups to cooperate for the general interest of the state and said his first effort would be to develop an army which would maintain the Roumanian frontiers.

The king left Parliament for the grave of Roumania's Unknown Soldier, where he laid a wreath and knelt. Then he visited the royal palace, from which he had been banished, and was deeply moved by the emotion of the old servants who cared for him as a child. They kissed his garments and wept, while the king warmly shook their hands but was unable to speak.

The entire country heard the proclamation ceremony, as it was broadcast by radio, and tonight the happy inhabitants of Bucharest danced in the streets. Now they are looking forward to the festival of the coronation, which will take place in October at Alba Julia, where King Ferdinand was crowned.

Maniu Ministry Resigns.

With a new king in power, the political situation has changed considerably. The ministry of Premier Maniu resigned yesterday and M. Mironescu formed a new cabinet.

Tonight, with the installation of the king completed, the new cabinet had completed its work and resigned. Thereupon, King Carol began consultations with a view to forming a new government. His first visitor was former Premier Maniu, but later his friend Prof. Jorga called, and the indications tonight were that Jorga would form a ministry, with Maniu holding one of the principal posts.

The first King Carol preceded King Ferdinand, Carol II's father.

Mission to Accomplish.

Immediately after Parliament had acted, King Carol issued a proclamation notifying the people of his accession. As he finished taking the oath of office, Prince Nicholas, Carol's younger brother, exclaimed: "You have again a mission to accomplish the last wish of King Ferdinand."

His words evidently alluded to the constant efforts of Carol's father, King Ferdinand I, to induce Carol to abandon his affairs of the heart and devote himself to the duties of government. From 1918, when he was united in a morganatic marriage at Odessa with a Mlle. Zizi Lambrino, to December, 1925, when he abandoned Princess Helen, his second wife, his son, and his prospective throne for another woman, he was in constant trouble with his relatives.

May Annul Divorce.

Before the parliamentary session which restored Carol's rights to rule, M. Mironescu, who was charged with the task of forming a new government when Premier Maniu resigned yesterday, paid a long visit to Princess Helen, Carol's divorced wife. There were reports that Carol would visit the princess soon, and that his agents would attempt to have her divorce annulled. Roumanian law prevents remarriage of a divorced man and woman.

The princess, formerly Princess Helen of Greece, was understood to have opposed Carol's return to Roumania, and to have threatened to leave the country if he did return. Political observers believed, however, that she might consent to some sort of reconciliation now that his coup is an accomplished fact.

Bucharest throughout the day was like a magic city, with splendid weather, thousands of flags and multicolored decorations fluttered from housetops and balconies. Every point offering a good view of the streets leading from the palace to the Parliament was crowded.

Army Swears Allegiance.

Representatives of the Hungarian, German and Bulgarian inhabitants of Roumania greeted King Carol after proclamation of his rule. At 4 o'clock representatives of the army swore allegiance to him.

M. Bratianu, Liberal leader, was the only member of Parliament to vote against removing Carol's legal disabilities. However, all party leaders declared after the ceremony that Carol II had been enthroned to bring security, authority and continuity to Roumania by development of internal peace and foreign relations.

Oberammergau, Bavaria, June 3 (A. P.).—Queen Marie of Roumania, accompanied by the Grand Duchess Cyril of Russia and Adjt. Col. Zwiedeneck, arrived here today from Munich by automobile to attend the Passion Play. On their arrival they were welcomed by Princess Hohenlohe-Langenbourg.

RAINS CHECK SALT CAMPAIGN OF INDIA

Civil Disobedience Group, in Session, Urges Boycott of Government Men.

KARACHI RIOT QUELLED

Bombay, June 8 (A.P.).—With the subjugation of northwest frontier tribesmen by British airplanes and with the coming of the rainy season lessening the activites of Nationalist salt raiders, the Indian situation offered little of an exciting nature today.

Nationalist political activity continues, however. At Jalapore a conference of civil disobedience volunteers was held under the presidency of Mrs. Grandhi, wife of the Mahatma, and adopted plans for stiffening of the civil resistance movement.

The conference adopted a resolution urging the nonpayment of land revenue and a social boycott of government servants, both of which are forbidden in recent ordinances promulgated by the viceroy.

The working committee of the All-India National Congress concluded the sitting which began last Wednesday at Allahabad. Its activities were kept secret, but it is understood the chief feature was a decision to increase the program of picketing liquor and foreign cloth shops.

Some of the members, it is understood, were in favor of picketing newspapers, but others felt that such a program was not advisable at present.

Karachi, India, June 8 (A.P.).—Several persons were injured in a clash last night between plain clothes detectives and civil disobedience volunteers in front of the home of the deputy superintendent of police, Rao Bahadur Daraindas Wadhumal. The crowd was finally dispersed at midnight.

German Minister's Body Lies in State

Victim of Assassin Will Be Given State Funeral by Portugal.

Lisbon, Portugal, June 8 (A.P.).—The body of Dr. Albert von Baligand, German Minister to Portugal, who was shot and killed yesterday by an assassin, lay in state today at the German Legation. Four sailors commanded by a lieutenant from the Cruiser Koenigsberg formed the guard of honor. Members of the Portuguese cabinet and members of the diplomatic corps, calling at the legation, filed before the casket to pay final tribute.

The cabinet met in an extraordinary session today and decided to give Dr. Baligand a state funeral tomorrow. All public departments, legations and war ships in the harbor will fly flags at half-mast. The government suspended all official receptions.

President Carmona today cabled a long message of sympathy to President Hindenburg of Germany. The funeral tomorrow will be held according to the ritual of the Catholic Church. Franz Plechowaki's trial on a charge of assassinating Dr. Baligand is set for next week.

Women Badly Slashed In Duel With Razors

Johnstown, Pa., June 8 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—As the result of a duel fought with razors between Mrs. William Drain, 30 and Mrs. William Molten, 29, both of this city, Mrs. Drain was in a serious condition today, her nose completely severed and Mrs. Molten was suffering from several severe gashes on the face and arms.

According to police, the two women became involved in an argument early in the afternoon but were pacified. Later the argument was resumed and the women engaged in a fist fight. They were again separated. Last night the trouble again broke out and neighbors say both women were hacking at each other with the razors.

MISSING GANGSTERS BELIEVED IN CANAL

Chicago Drainage Ditch to Be Dragged for Moran and Five Gunmen.

EXECUTED, SAY POLICE

Chicago, June 8 (A.P.).—Discovery of the body of Eugene "Red" McLaughlin, notorious gangster, in the Chicago drainage canal has strengthened the police theory that a half dozen "missing" Moran gunmen have been slain and their bodies similarly disposed of.

George "Bugs" Moran, kingpin of the North Side Badlands, along with five of his chief lieutenants, have disappeared since the outbreak of the latest gang war, police revealed today. The other Moran mobsmen posted as missing are:

Ted Newberry, business agent and alleged Moran killer; Leo Mongoven, Moran's bodyguard; Bennie Bennett, who, police said, left a profitable liquor business in New York to join Moran; Robert Schmidt, known as "Frisco Dutch," reputed machine gunner; Willie Higgins, who entered Chicago racketeering after a like career in St. Paul.

Executed, Says Chief.

"All or several of these missing men have been executed by rival gangsters," Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney's office, said.

Roche plans to have the Chicago sanitary district canal dragged Monday for more bodies.

It was in the drainage canal that McLaughlin's body, weighted with iron, was brought to the surface by the churning of a tugboat.

Detective squads combed the city for two women whose testimony may prove valuable at the McLaughlin inquest tomorrow. One was Margaret Hamilton, called the "Death Lily of Gangland," because six of her suitors, the last one, McLaughlin, were cut down by gangland artillery.

Photograph on Body.

Investigators found the photograph of the second girl, young and attractive, in riding costume, in the slain gunman's clothes. It was autographed: "I'll love you forever, Gene," and signed, "Maria."

Robert McLaughlin, president of the Chicago Checker Cab Co. and brother of the dead gangster, announced he was planning an elaborate funeral, equal in grandeur to that of Dion O'Banion, whose $20,000 casket "Red" McLaughlin helped carry to the grave.

President and Guests Return to White House

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover, accompanied by his fifteen guests, arrived at the White House late yesterday from his Virginia camp.

Orange, Va., June 8 (A.P.).—President Hoover and his week-end guests at the Rapidan River fishing camp started back for Washington this afternoon after a heavy downpour had cut down their usual outdoor activities.

A Sunday school session occupied the morning hours and several of the guests took short hikes on the mountain slopes.

Mrs. Hoover, convalescing from an injury to her back, remained at camp, heeding the advice of Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician.

Five Stolen Cars Found In Half Hour by Alligood

Detective Sergt. Frank Alligood, ace of the automobile squad, yesterday recovered five stolen cars within a half hour.

Two of the automobiles were stolen in 1926. Another had been reported missing in Baltimore an hour before it was picked up by Alligood at Twenty-fifth and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Recovery of the automobiles brought the sergeant's total recoveries to 20 during the past seven days, which is believed to be a record in the history of the department.

Woman Takes Poison; Note Bids Mate Good-By

Mrs. Rosie M. Dorsey, 37 years old, is in Casualty Hospital suffering from effects of poison, allegedly taken with suicidal intent yesterday at her home in Third street, near F street northwest.

Mrs. Dorsey was taken to the hospital after treatment by Dr. Louis Jimal. Her condition is not serious. A note was found, addressed to her husband, saying that she had drunk poison and bidding him "good-by."

Man Shot in Argument; Six in House Are Held

Joseph Coats, colored, 27 years old, was shot in the left arm during an argument yesterday over the numbers game at a house in Third street, near R street northwest.

Six colored men and women, who were in the house during the argument, were taken to the Second Precinct Station and held for investigation. None would say who did the shooting. Coats was taken to Freedmen's Hospital. His condition is not serious.

Oldest Candidate, 104, Seeks Post as Justice

Stockton, Calif., June 8 (A.P.). San Joaquin County claims the oldest candidate for public office in the Nation. He is W. Harry Rane, who gave his age as 104 in filing declaration of his candidacy for justice of the peace for Castoria township.

Rane told the county clerk he had served terms as justice of the peace in Ohio, Georgia and Illinois, and believed he was old enough to know how to handle the job.

BAD WEATHER HALTS TRANSATLANTIC HOP

RIFLEMEN SHOOT ROOKS

Baldonnel, Ireland, June 8 (A.P.).—Reports of bad weather late today caused Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith to postpone once more his attempt at an East-West flight over the Atlantic Ocean. The take-off had been set for early tomorrow, but the second postponement left the time undecided. Capt. Smith's airplane, the Southern Cross, was in the hangar here at Baldonnel tonight, ready to fly to the Curragh Camp, whence the start will be made.

The Southern Cross was tuned up at noon in preparation for a flight to the camp. Weather reports indicated that there was a prospect of starting in the morning. A few minor adjustments were made on the plane, and Capt. Smith said it was in perfect condition.

Powerful pumps have been installed by the runway at Curragh, and all the gasoline needed for the Atlantic flight could be put aboard in a comparatively short time should the fliers decide on a hurried start. Capt. Smith, however, has mapped out his plans on the expectation of taking off at dawn, and hesitates to change them on moment's notice.

Sharpshooters with rifles have been guarding the plane in the airdome here, constantly shooting crows and rooks, which abound in the neighborhood, to keep them from crashing into the propellers when the engine is running. The orderly officer at the airdome also carries a rook rifle, and often in the midst of conversation, he takes a pot shot at a rook.

Col. Fierro Prepares For Mexico City Flight

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 8 (A. P.).—Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexican aviator, who flew from Montgomery, Ala., to Curtiss Field at Valley Stream, N. Y., yesterday, brought his plane to this field today to make preparations for a nonstop flight to Mexico City. The pure-white craft was washed and checked by mechanics, who said they found it in good condition. Experts will examine the motors and instruments before Col. Fierro begins his long flight, for which no date has yet been set.

On his flight yesterday the airman was forced by low visibility to descend at Barren Island, in Jamaica Bay. He later took off for Curtiss Field.

PHILIPPIC OF REED STIRS SPECULATION

Missouri Leaders Profess to See White House as Speaker's Goal.

DRY LAW SEEN AS ISSUE

St. Louis, June 8 (A.P.).—Political leaders throughout the country today speculated on whether "Jim" Reed had returned actively to the political arena. In Missouri Democratic leaders appeared unanimous in the opinion that Reed would campaign for the presidential nomination in 1932. Reed was a candidate "to the end of the road" as he worded it, at the Houston convention, but the boom for Alfred E. Smith had gained such headway that the fiery Missourian was unable to head it off.

Reed in his first important speech since his retirement from the Senate two years ago addressed a large crowd at a State-wide rally at Sedalia last night and many close observers believed the reaction would determine whether the former senator would set the White House as his goal.

They talked "Jim" Reed for President openly at the rally, and party leaders regarded it as significant that Reed did nothing to discourage it.

Speaker Mentions Presidency.

From the same platform Reed later stood upon to assail the last three Republican administrations, business monopoly, prohibition, the Antisaloon League, Bishop James Cannon, jr., the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, the Anglo-American naval agreement and "prostitution" of the Federal Reserve system in stock "gambling." John T. Barker, city counselor of Kansas City, former attorney general of Missouri and long a personal and political friend of the ex-senator, said it "was not beyond the realm of possibility" that Reed would be nominated and elected President.

When Reed's time came to speak he said nothing about Barker's statement. Tom Pendergast, of Kansas City, long a powerful Democratic leader in Missouri, said he felt certain Reed would "have a chance" in 1932.

Reed took what many thought was a shot at the tariff stand of the Democratic national convention of 1928, saying "even a national convention seduced by the hope of temporary victory into the approval of false doctrines and makeshift expedients, can not permanently destroy or change the fundamentals which are the soul of the Democratic party."

"Political jugglers" he called those responsible for the "false doctrines and makeshift expedients" but refrained from mentioning names.

Calls Tariff Robbery.

Always a vigorous opponent of national prohibition, Reed indicated, observers were convinced, that he was as opposed as ever to the law and that should he campaign for the nomination, he would make prohibition one of the leading issues. Tariff also would figure prominently, it was believed, since he called the Hawley-Smoot bill "nothing more or less than robbery."

Reed's shafts, directed chiefly against President Hoover, Secretary Mellon and Secretary Hyde, brought the greatest applause.

After assailing what he called the "aluminum trust," he said:

"We tried Fall for leasing the oil lands, we enthrone Andrew Mellon for securing the right to pick the pockets of the American people."

Deriding the agriculture experience and acumen of Hyde, former Governor of Missouri, and long a bitter political opponent, Reed dismissed him as "inconsequential."

Following his assault upon the naval agreement, Reed shouted:

"I protest that the pacifist, whether he be Quaker or a Briton, shall not pull down the American flag."

Of the present national administration he asserted: "Hoover's presidential achievements have been written in cyphers."

Divorces by Mexican Courts Declared Valid

Mexico City, June 8 (A.P.).—Justice Francisco Diaz Lombardo today set at rest the minds of many Mexicans and Americans who had obtained divorces in Cuernavaca, State of Morelos.

The third division of the supreme court last week threw a cloud over the Cuernavaca divorces by revoking one issued there on the ground that the Morelos law was invalid. Justice Lombardo, who presides over that division, announced today the decision affected only the case which was granted. He said the constitution forbids the automatic annulment of all cases by a decision on one.

Island Town of 11,000 Swept by Costly Fire

Copenhagen, Denmark, June 8 (A.P.).—The town of Nykjobing on the Island of Falster was swept last night by a fire which caused damage estimated at 5,000,000 krone (more than $1,250,000). Starting in a timber yard the fire spread to the business section, high wind carrying sparks over the town. The townsfolk spent most of the night moving their valuables on hand trucks.

Nykjobing is the capital of the Island of Falster in the Baltic Sea. It has a population of about 11,000.

JOHNSON CONTINUES FIRE ON SEA TREATY

Asserts Demands of Britain Will Cripple Navy Power of This Nation.

HITS CONCESSIONS MADE

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Undaunted by apparent obstacles, Senator Hiram Johnson continued his active opposition to the London Naval Treaty yesterday by making public a prepared statement respecting the cruiser controversy involved in the pact.

The gist of the statement is that Great Britain has retained the right to build the type of cruiser she prefers while the United States agrees to build the type which Great Britain permits. The contrast between America's attitude at the Geneva conference of 1927, where American cruiser demands were insisted upon, and America's position at the London conference is emphasized by Senator Johnson.

Whether Mr. Johnson's statement is based wholly on testimony of naval officers who have appeared before the foreign relations committee or partly on some of the data which Secretary Stimson has furnished the committee is not disclosed, but Senator Johnson has indicated that so far he has not had access to the confidential diplomatic documents which he desired.

Committee Will Meet Today.

The committee will meet today and probably decide whether any further request is to be made of the State Department or whether the letter from Secretary Stimson, declining to transmit confidential data, will be regarded as finally disposing of the so-called secret documents issue.

Senator Johnson's statement is as follows:

"The terms of the London treaty in relation to cruisers is illuminating and instructive. Cruisers are now a necessary and indispensable part of a navy. Great Britain desires one kind of cruiser. The United States, up to the time of the London treaty, has desired another kind of cruiser. Great Britain has numerous naval bases and a very large merchant marine capable of immediate transformation into fighting ships.

"America has few naval bases and a merchant marine not one-fourth the size of that of Great Britain. The Washington conference limited the maximum tonnage of cruisers to 10,000, and the size of guns which might be mounted upon them to 8 inches, and authorized merchant ships under certain circumstances to carry 6-inch guns. Great Britain, because of her naval bases and her overwhelming preponderant merchant marine, requires for her fleet smaller cruisers, mounting only a 6-inch gun."

Reason for U. S. Needs.

The United States, because deficient and wholly inferior in both bases and merchant marine, requires for her fleet cruisers of larger size, 10,000 tons, and the larger 8-inch guns. Were the United States to depend entirely upon a smaller cruiser with the limited cruiser radius and the smaller gun, her lack of bases and very much smaller merchant marine would leave her in a position of such marked inferiority as to be grossly unfair and unjust.

"Great Britain, in the long course of negotiations, suggested a total tonnage in cruisers of 339,000 tons. This was accepted. The American Navy desired that, up to the total tonnage, Great Britain should build such cruisers as she wished, and the United States should build such cruisers as we deemed appropriate. The needs of the two nations admittedly are different, and the disparity between the two in naval bases and merchant ships which might be armed make this difference. Great Britain has consistently and pertinaciously declined to permit the two nations to build within the limits of the tonnage such cruisers as each thought necessary.

"Finally Great Britain suggested two categories of cruisers, dividing them, without going into detail, in substance, into those carrying six-inch guns and those carrying eight-inch guns. Six-inch gun cruisers are of little value to the United States, particularly in the matter of protecting American commerce. They are all sufficient for Great Britain.

21 Demanded; 19 Allowed.

"The representatives of our Navy, at the insistence of our Government, and that an agreement of limitation might be reached, finally, reluctantly agreed to an irreducible minimum of 21 eight-inch gun cruisers. Great Britain refused to permit us 21. Ultimately, Great Britain offered to "permit" the United States to build 18. Even this was coupled with the condition we could have only 18 during the life of the treaty and two thereafter. Of course, an equivalent of six-inch gun cruisers was offered, but these the great preponderance of naval authorities held to be of little consequence to the United States.

"In 1927 at Geneva the same attitude was maintained by Great Britain. Great Britain then insisted that the kind of cruisers we should have for our Navy should be as designated by her, and our representatives there demanded that we, ourselves, should determine the kind of cruiser within the limitation we might build. So far as can be gathered from the information which has been accorded us, Mr. Macdonald never varied in his demands concerning the number of eight-inch cruisers we should have, while we, on the contrary, first insisted on cruisers in accordance with our needs, and then yielded to Great Britain's wishes.

Weakening of Navy Seen.

"It is no answer to assert that the difference is only three or five cruisers, or that we may build a greater tonnage of six-inch gun cruisers; because, first, the six-inch gun cruisers do not meet the needs of our country, or furnish the adequate protection of our commerce; and secondly, by building according to Great Britain's desires, if, as provided by the treaty, there is another conference in 1935, our Navy will be frozen into a condition most disadvantageous to us.

"The attempt is made by the proponents of the London treaty to minimize this difference in cruisers, but the matter was of sufficient importance for Great Britain from the beginning to the end to insist upon our acceptance of her designation of the kind of cruisers we should have, and, as one of the witnesses in the hearings remarked, if we had not accepted there probably would have been no agreement.

"In brief, this is the cruiser controversy, about which much has been said and written. Great Britain builds as she prefers; the United States builds as Great Britain permits."

Prelate Mobbed By Crowd in Malta

Police Forced to Charge on Throngs That Shout Against Italy.

Malta, June 8 (A.P.).—Mounted police were forced to charge dense street crowds here today to halt a demonstration against the Catholic Archbishop of Malta by supporters of Lord Strickland, head of the Malta government. The disorders occurred after the Whitsunday services in the cathedral, conducted by the archbishop. Crowds assembled, shouting "Long live Strickland!" "Down with Italy!"

Police were hurried to the scene, but were unable to disperse the throngs until mounted men charged from several points. The archbishop remained in the cathedral. Several arrests were made.

Lord Strickland's government has been at loggerheads with the Catholic authorities. The friction started when the church sought to transfer a monk who was a British citizen to a Sicilian monastery against his wishes.

BOY KILLED BY SHOT IN RESORT HOLDUP

Detective Fires at Lad, 16, Who Is Later Exonerated by 2 Alleged Robbers.

BULLET HITS BARMAN

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—An attempted holdup of a reputed speakeasy today led to shooting in which a detective killed a 16-year-old boy and a bartender was slightly wounded.

As the story was told by police, nine youths, including Joseph Casey, jr., 16, entered Mingo's, a resort in East Tenth street, and were served beer and sandwiches in a back room. Then three of the men, whose identity was not established, walked out front and attempted to hold up the proprietor, Americus Mingo.

Detective William Murphy, who was in the place, fired at the trio, who fled. One of them fired as he ran, wounding Louis Bertonicians, bartender, in the left arm.

Murphy walked into the back room and ordered the six other men, seated at tables, to throw up their hands. Casey, he said, made a suspicious movement toward his pocket, so he fired, killing the youth, who later was found to be unarmed. The surviving five were arrested. They said they had met the three alleged holdup men only a short time before and knew nothing of their apparent intention to rob the place.

Later police arrested Martin McKnight, 20, and Edward Burns, 20, who confessed, detectives said, that they were two of the three men who attempted the holdup.

They were quoted as saying that Casey knew of their plans.

ANTEDILUVIAN persons who think everything was prime, perfect and pulsant "in the good old days" are forever circulating the libel that the dignified Senate of the United States at present lacks the color, charm and intellectual bigness for which former Senates were famous.

Such defamation is inexcusable. In color, entertainment and picturesqueness the senators of today leave nothing to be desired. Their talents are as varied as they are surprising.

* * * *

MR. BROOKHART, for instance, is a crack shot, and in 1912 he rifle team of which he was a member won the championship of the world in long-distance and fancy shooting.

Mr. Bingham, who has thoroughly explored the wildest sections of Peru, Colombia and Zenezuela, can climb a mountain with all the speed, agility and sure-footednes sof an Alpine goat. Furthermore, he has written several boks on exploration, and they have been published.

Mr. Steck, having labored in his youth as a cowpuncher, converses with thrilling, not to say lurid, charm on the gentle art of subduing the rebellious steer, and Mr. Norbeck has at his fingers' ends al lthe intricacies of well drilling, that having been his occupation for a considerable period.

* * * *

MR. PATTERSON, of Missouri, is an authority on Shakespeare and classical drama in general, while Mr. Dale, of Vermont, once put in two years studying under the scholar, James E. Murdoch.

If an ambitious youth is at a loss as to how to get a start in the world, he wil ldo well to apply to Mr. Couzens, who began his climb to the multimillionaire estate by working as a news butcher on railroad trains and steeping himself in the puzzling psychology of the selling of peanuts, cigarettes and magazines.

* * * *

AS a record-breaker, Mr. Blease is in a class all by himself. In his biography in the Congressional Directory is the statement that he has "served in more public offices than any other citizen of his State up to the present date."

Mr. Copeland not only is a physician but also put in thirteen years teaching medicine at the University of Michigan, and who is there to say that any senator, past or present, could possibly have accumulated more absorbing and educational information about human nature than a physician-politician?

* * * *

AS an authority on Alexander Hamilton, Mr. Vandenberg is preeminent, having a written a book on the only rival Mr. Mellon ever had in the Secretaryship of the Treasury, and Mr. Hawes is equally learned in the ancient art of angling, having recently published a tome on how to hook the timid and retreating denizens of deeps and shallows.

surprise to many of his colleagues. He was reelected for his fifth term in 1924 by a majority of 111,000 and was then without opposition in his party.

Washington political observers were quick to talk yesterday about the causes and effect of the North Carolina upset, but the talk was private mostly. The Democratic primary was one of the first involving a senator who opposed the Democratic presidential candidacy of Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

There were indications each night, upon the announcement of Senator Simmons that he would not run as an independent, that the Republicans were preparing to wage an active campaign in North Carolina.

Senate Shakeup Assured.

Defeat of Senator Simmons assures one of the greatest turnovers of many years in Senate membership in the next Congress.

Already two other members of the Senate have been defeated for renomination—Senators Deneen, of Illinois, and Grundy, of Pennsylvania, both Republicans.

Previously, six Republican senators announced they would not be candidates to succeed themselves in this year's election— Gillett, of Massachusetts; Gould, of Maine; Phipps, of Colorado; Goff, of West Virginia; Sullivan, of Wyoming; and Baird, of New Jersey.

Thus, nine of the 35 members of the Senate up for reelection this year are already out of the race. Senator McMaster (Republican), South Dakota, is the only member to go through a primary contest victoriously so far.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the assistant Republican leader, was enominated without opposition but most of the other candidates face both primary and election battles.

BYRD TO BRING ALL OF HIS CREW HERE

the legend, "National Geographic Society—Special Medal of Honor," and a symbolic figure representing a winged man conquering the poles. The sculptor of the medal was Laura Gardin Fraser.

Admiral Byrd and the entire personnel of his expedition will be the guests of the National Geographic Society from the time the New York reception exercises are completed on the afternoon of their arrival there, June 19. They will board a special train at midnight at the Pennsylvania Station, and will be brought directly from Union Station to the Willard Hotel here where, by their request, they will be permitted to rest until noon.

At 12:30 o'clock Admiral Byrd and his entire command will be received at the White House. At 1:30 they will be guests of the trustees of the National Geographic Society for luncheon. At 3:30 o'clock Admiral Byrd will make his official visit and pay his respects to the Secretary of the Navy.

In a communication to Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, vice president of the society, Admiral Byrd said: "I am bringing all my men because they all were essential to our expedition. The men who turned back to New Zealand after they brought our supplies through those perilous seas were real heroes. They all wanted to stay, but they played the game like men, and they deserve full recognition for their vital part in our work."

One of the most distinguished gatherings ever assembled in Washington will see the presentation of the special medal of honor at the Washington Auditorium in the evening, and hear Admiral Byrd give his first report of his expedition to the members of the National Geographic Society, as did Peary, Roosevelt when he returned from Africa and South America, and many other noted explorers.

The announcement of the society further explains:

"In connection with the report by Admiral Byrd on the objectives and attainments of the Byrd Antarctic expedition of 1928-30, to which the society subscribed $50,000 and accorded assistance in every way, there will be exhibited for the time the official motion pictures of the expedition."

CHINESE WAR RAISES NEW ISSUE FOR U. S.

government, but one to gain control of the latter and conduct its policies on different lines.

It was generally admitted that the presence in the Northern coalition of both conservatives and radicals may present Gen. Yen with a serious problem internally, which might seriously embarrass his military activities.

Responsibility Is Assumed.

Nanking, June 8 (A.P.).—The government today advised foreign diplomatic representatives it would assume full responsibility for protection of the lives and property of foreign nationals in the various war zones during the government's campaign against the rebels.

20,000 Die in Battle.

Shanghai, June 8 (A.P.).—An official statement issued today said that the rebel losses in the recent battle near Sin Cheng were heavy, with 20,000 killed, 10,000 taken prisoner and 15,000 surrendering voluntarily.

Meanwhile, the government has concentrated seven gunboats at Yochow to cooperate against the Kwangsi rebels, who are reported to be advancing from the southward in the vicinity of Changsha.

An official message from Tainan, where the armies of the Northern coalition have been reported dangerously near for several days, said that the city was quiet today.

It was added that the government forces are continuing air raids against the enemy, bombing Shansi and rebel camps along the Shantung-Chihli border.

Spanish Priests Seized.

Hankow, China, June 8 (A.P.).—Fathers Hidalgo and Avioto, Spanish priests, were kidnaped from Hwoshan, about 150 miles northeast of this city in western Anhwei province, it was learned today, presumably by the same bandits who a week ago captured Father Clifford King at the Catholic mission at Sinyangchow, 100 miles north of here in southern Honan.

The bandits demanded ransom in the form of supplies of arms and ammunition. The three priests were believed held in a village 20 miles west of Sinyangchow.

Taking advantage of the departure northward of National government troops, outlaws in large bodies have been operating in this district for several weeks.

FOUR TOWNS READY FOR JUNE ELECTIONS

Spirited Contests Are Slated in Vienna and Falls Church Tomorrow.

WIDE RANGE OF ISSUES

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Four incorporated towns will hold their biannual elections tomorrow. Contests in the towns of Vienna and Falls Church promise to be close. The issues of the campaigns range all the way from a more rigid-enforcement program and businesslike administration to the elimination of the numerous stray dogs of the towns.

One of the most spirited elections in the history of Vienna is expected. There are three candidates for the office of mayor, thirteen for councilmen and three for town sergeant. There are only five members of the town council to be elected. The candidates are: For mayor, Edgar T. Bennett, incumbent; Dr. R. L. Bradfield and M. O. Bradford. Former Mayor A. W. Leonard has withdrawn from the race. For councilmen: Virginia S. Hutchison, Hazel T. Davis, I. N. Jones, C. A. Ashton, Arthur B. Barringer, Fred N. Hagman, jr., Walter Roles, J. E. Fritter, Joseph Berry, Carl Allensworth, C. J. Tallman, Vernon Gowin and A. A. McGhee, and for town sergeant, W. E. Thompson, F. N. Fritter and T. J. Petitt.

Keen contests are under way for each vacancy in the town of Falls Church, which has one of the largest voting lists in the history of the town. Three candidates have filed for mayor. They are Capt. John P. Bethune, incumbent, Maj. L. P. Daniels, and the Rev. William S. Shacklette. Two candidates have filed for each of the thre vacancies in the town council: W. T. Westcott is opposed by Frank L. Birch in the first ward. Phillip Talbott is opposed by J. V. Turner in the second ward and Milton Roberts by Dr. Joseph Allison in the third ward. The polls will open at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and close at sundown.

Little interest is in evidence in the town of Fairfax race for mayor and five members of the council. Only two candidates, A. R. Sherwood and O. B. Campbell, have filed for council and no one is apparently willing to serve as mayor. The voters will have to write the names of their candidates in the vacant spaces on the ballot.

The election in the town of Clifton is similar t othe situation that exists in Fairfax. No one seems willing to serve, or to seek the office.

The members of the Volunteer Fire Department and Women's Auxiliary at Falls Church, wil hold a point meeting tonight in the engine house to discuss plans for the entertainment of the Arlington-Fairfax Firemen's Association which will meet in Falls Church, June 17.

The Catholic Students Mission Crusade Union, of the St. James Church at West Falls Church, will meet tonight at the home of Miss Elizabeth and Miss Edna May Brown. At this time delegates will be elected to represent Falls Church at the diocesan convention to be held in Richmond, June 22 and 24.

The regular meeting of the town council at Herndon will be held tonight.

The last high school commencement exercises of the schools in Fairfax County will be held tonight at the Clifton High School. The principal address will be given by Dr. George L. Farnham, professor of English at the George Washington University and pastor of the Cleveland Park Congregational Church in Washington. The diplomas will be presented by Divisional Superintendent of Schools Wilbert T. Woodson. The class valedictorian will be Eleanor Chesley; salutatorian, Stella May Detwiller; prophet, Leon Buckley; class historian, Annie Lester, and giftorian, Beulah Garrison.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Columbia Baptist Church at Falls Church will give a lawn party tomorrow on the church lawn. Mrs. Walter Jewell, Mrs. T B. Snoddy and Mrs. R. C. Story will have charge of all arrangements.

The Falls Church Ministerial Association will meet tomorrow morning in the Presbyterian Manse, on Broad street, in Falls Church.

more taxpayers than any other organization in the National Capital, voiced indignant protest against their adoption.

"It is admitted by everybody that the House would enact this bill without amendment if permitted to vote upon it. We have, therefore, the spectacle of one representative seeking to impose his autocratic will upon the District, over the protests of its taxpaying citizenry and against the overwhelming judgment of Congress. Nothing fruite like this intolerant injustice has come to public notice in decades. It is force rule in its worst phase and so un-American, I can not believe Congress will allow him to prevail."

HEADLONG TUMBLE HITS STOCK PRICES

Listless Market Suddenly Jolted at Week-End By Bear Attack.

BROKERAGE LOANS RISE

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—The stock market fell out of bed last week—a rude awakening from its drowse of more than a fortnight. The market dozed along until toward the end of the week, apparently unmindful of constant bearish prodding, inspired by rather unfavorable business news, but a sharp bear jab on Friday was sufficient to send snare prices generally tumbling to the levels of early May.

With business now obviously going into a summer lull without having made a very impressive record during the spring, with commodity prices showing further unsettlement and credit rates tumbling to the lowest levels in recent years through sheer lack of demand for funds, efforts to send shares higher were completely abandoned, and floor traders who make a market from day to day regardless of the amount of commission business, found the line of the least resistance tending conspicuously downward.

General developments of the week favored the bear cause, although their influence was largely psychological. Slack demand for funds has undoubtedly reduced banking profits, and bank stocks turned weak, always an unsettling influence, whatever the cause. Radio Corporation decided to forego its quarterly earnings statement, explaining that capital changes offered troublesome obstacles. Tire manufacturers cut their prices about 5 per cent. There were a few dividend reductions, although they were not unexpected.

The weekly brokerage loan figures shot up $79,000,000, despite a sluggish stock market during the period covered. This was foreshadowed by a gain of $99,000,000 in bank loans on securities disclosed for the previous week, although brokers' loans gained only $7,000,00. Although any conclusive analysis of these figures can not be made from the material available, Wall street generally decided that the heavy offerings of bonds during May had not been moving into investors' strongboxes very readily, and dealers had been forced to seek loans against them. The gain in bank loans on securities was undoubtedly due in part to the fact that brokers have not reduced their carrying charge as rapidly as banks have reduced their rates, resulting in a switching of securities from brokerage accounts to the banks.

Continued delay in offering the German reparations loan has also been an unsettling factor. Houses of issue have practically halted activity to leave a clear road for this issue. Many bankers feel that unnecessary precautions are being taken to insure the success of the issue in view of the favorable terms planned.

CLUBWOMEN HONOR DEPARTED LEADERS

Federation Convention Has Biennial Service in Bowl of Red Rocks.

STATE CHIEFS GATHER

Mount Morrison Colo., June 8 (A.P.).—In the nature-made cathedral of the bowl of the Red Rocks, west of here in the Colorado Rockies, members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs gathered today for their biennial memorial service.

"Singleness of purpose has drawn members of the general federation into a close bond of love," said Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, of Pasadena, Calif., past president of the general federation in the memorial address. "We are left to carry on the ideals fostered by the loved ones who have departed. Their cause and ours is one and in honoring their memory, we must not fail them."

Nearly 1,000 persons sat in the natural amphitheater before the rostrum hewn from the richly colored red rocks of the bowl. A forest of pines framed the spot where Mrs. John C. Sippel, national president of the federation, opened the services. She read the names of women prominent in the work of the federation who have died within the past two years. A trumpet quartet stationed high up in a cleft on the side of the jumbled mass of rocks, played "Evening Star" and "The Lost Chord."

The plaintive notes of "Taps" echoed through the bowl and remained in the air after the two buglers had taken their trumpets from their lips as the brief services were ended.

The memorial service was the only scheduled session today of delegates to the twentieth biennial convention of the federation. A powwow for the professional press at Indian Hills preceded the services in the bowl of the Red Rocks.

The State presidents met at dinner tonight preliminary to their meeting tomorrow morning when they become the nominating committee of the convention. No change is expected in the line-up of officers with the exception of the treasurer, Mrs. H. G. Reynolds, of Paducah, Ky., whose term expires. She probably will be succeeded by Mrs. Edward Hammett, of Sheboygan, Wis., most prominently mentioned for the place.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

"Good Advice."

DEAR MISS McDONALD: If you will allow me, I would like to say a few words concerning the treatment of husbands who insist on leaving their wives alone. Of course, human nature is an old mixture, and what will do for one person won't do for another.

Some years ago, after my husband had enjoyed the honeymoon and had installed me in a comfortable home and living, he seemed to think his duty was done. He would bring me a new book or magazine, and candy, then feel free to join the "gang" any evening and every evening. I went through the usual phases of coaxing, petting, tears, begging, demanding, on to rebellion. None had any effect, but the rebellion, and that worked the wrong way.

I believed that as long as my husband would not stay with me evenings nor take me with him, I had a perfect right to find my own friends. I went out with girls, to the movies, to little parties where they danced, &c. As my friends were young, as I was, they would often include men in these parties, and often I was paired off with an extra man. It was all natural, without the least harm, a situation that can not be helped if a married woman will go to these gatherings without her husband. I don't know how this would work out in the large cities, but in small cities and towns it invariably causes gossip. In every group of people there are men who prefer to remain bachelors, who are a bit scary of being inveigled into marriage, and these men delight in a partner who is already married, thus causing jealous mammas of marriageable daughters to start the gossip.

Then I thought I could see that the staid married people who observed all the conventions and who really form the backbone of our country, looked askance at the young married woman who wandered from her own fireside unaccompanied by her husband.

Also my husband, who in no way attached any blame to himself, insinuated that I was meeting some "friends" and increased his hours of absence from home.

I had been taught to seek the real values of life and I decided that evenings of pleasure did not mean enough to me to endure this kind of living. Loneliness was preferable. I interested myself in study, and after a short while found the evenings at home alone hardly long enough. It is not the ideal married life that we all dream of, far from it, but not many of us are fitted for an ideal life anyway. Now in the case of my friend who had the same problem to face, and who insisted on her right to spend her time when and where she would, so long as her husband would not stay with her, she never loved another man, never did wrong in any way, yet her husband left her. Now she is near middle life. Only last week I heard her say: "Oh if I'd only known how short are the years when going out with friends will suffice, and how long are the years when a quiet fireside and some one to love and care for are all one needs."

Leitch, Boy Scout executive of this region. In the afternoon a competition was held between the troops present consisting of bandaging, knot tying, message relay, nature study and tug of war. CLASS HEARS PLEA FOR BALANCED LIFE

Maryland University Graduating Sermon Is Preached by Baltimore Pastor.

WIDE INTERESTS URGED

Special to The Washington Post.

College Park, Md., June 8.—With an appeal to lead a "balanced life" as his central theme, the Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, pastor of the Eutaw Place Baptist Church of Baltimore, delivered a stirring baccalaureate sermon to the senior class of the University of Maryland today. His subject was "Star and Electron." An audience that overflowed the university auditorium heard the sermon.

Dr. Raymond Allen Pearson, president of the university, acted as chairman at the exercises, and Dr. Albert F. Woods, former president, read the selection from the Scriptures.

Dr. Wallace symbolized the "star" as all that is distant and vast, while the "electron" was contrasted as being near and minute. The "star" characterized the ideals, ambitions and artistry of man, whereas the "electron" depicted the everyday tasks and duties of life. "Each is absolutely essential to a balanced life," Dr. Wallace declared.

Wide Interests Needed.

First of all Dr. Wallace told the seniors that maintaining an interest in the commonplace activities of the day was most necessary and that the family, community, country and race all should be the recipient of attention and cooperation from every citizen. Fundamentally, he asserted, the greatest man is the ranker, not the ruler. "A little of everything is needed," he said.

However, Dr. Wallace declared that the aspirations of man should reach beyond the horizon. "There is a heavenly horizon," he declared, "which is never overleaped and in which the ambitions and ideals of man find stimulus. For a full-grown life, high aspirations are demanded, and through them the whole world progresses."

Prior to the baccalaureate address the Women's Senior Honor Society held its annual initiation, selecting for membership Eleanor Baumel, Elizabeth Mims, Jane Hammack, Elgar Jones, Harriet Bishop and Felisa Jenkins.

Commencement Ball Tonight.

The society was organized five years ago to give recognition to those of the incoming senior class who during the first three years in college have achieved high scholastic tsanding and have typified high citizenship and character.

Tomorrow will be senior class and alumni day, with events going on from early in the morning until the commencement ball in the Ritchie Gymnasium ends late at night. There will be an annual session of the alumni association at 10 o'clock, and the graduating class and the old grads will mingle in various affairs that follow.

The graduating exercises will be held in Ritchie Gymnasium Tuesday at 11 o'clock, with Dr. James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, delivering the commencement address.

ARLINGTON TO VOTE UPON BONDS TODAY

School Issue Finds Favor, but Sewer Proposal Is Opposed.

POSTERS CIRCULATED

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With banners flying over the highways of Arlington County reading, "Make Arlington County Grow—Vote Today for the Sewer and School Bond Issue," the voters will go to the polls which open today at sunrise and cast their ballots. The polls will close at sundown.

While sentiment is strongly in favor of the school bond issue and there is every indication it will be approved by the voters, there is a strong feeling developing in the county that the sewer bond issue will not pass.

In many quarters of the county the feeling is that taxes will increase far more than has been estimated and in other sections that the installation of sewers in the county should be carried out by districts and not as an entire county project.

Several hundred posters were being circulated last night in every section of the county appealing to the citizens to suport the two issues.

County political leaders explained last night the correct method of marking ballots. The proposal that the voter is voting for must be left with no marks and that which he is voting against must have a line drawn at least three-fourths of the way through it.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class at the Washington-Lee High School was preached yesterday in the school auditorium by the Rev. H. W. O. Millington, executive secretary, District of Columbia Baptist Association.

Class night will be held in the auditorium tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

The program will open with the singing of "America," followed by an address by the president of the class, Paul Heins.

An interesting feature of the program will be the debate, on the resolution: "That the Senior Class Is Not Properly Prepared for Graduation." The affirmative will be taken by Betsy Cannon and Allan Willis while on the negative side will be Ann Petty and Griffiths Barry.

A play entitled "Help Yourself" will be presented. The cast includes, Robert Tabor, Clara Nourse, Frances Bell, Edward Davidson, and Clement Woodward.

Graduating exercises will take place Wednesday night in the auditorium at 8 o'clock, when the principal speaker will be John R. Saunders, attorney general of Virginia.

County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp will present the diplomas. Those who will receive them are Griffiths Barry, Roger Beebe, Arthur Belfield, Herbert Bird, Arnold Carter, Edward Chewning, William Clark, Lewis Clouser, Harvey Collins, Everett Conner, Edward Davidson, Fred Ericson, Paul Fischer, Randolph Follin, William Furr, Crosby Germain, Leonard Golden, H. Gordon Gonyea, Wingert Harrison, Paul Heins, Harold Heishman, Roue Hogan, Walter Horn, Tanner Kinnier, Roland Manning, Robert Marks, Novice McNeeley, Hugh Reid, Conway Richardson, Ellsworth Simpson, Gerald Sonnenberg, Walter Spauls, George Tabor, Alton Wise, Carl Wolverton, Clements Woodward, David Young, Byron Ross and Denman Rucker, Mary Arnold, Pauline Beach, Eleanor Bean, Frances Bell, Frances Bierly, Lorraine Branson, Aurelia Brown, Pearl Compton.

Others receiving diplomas will be Sallie Corley, Anne Davies, Nancy DeLashmutt, Florence Evans, Lucia Fraber, Yolande Gantt, Vivian Gessford, Katherine Graves, Katherine Hyde, Faye Humphrey, Ruth Kelter, Virginia Kelly, Nora Kennedy, Frances Kibler, Eleanor King, Margaret Kidd, Katherine Lawrence, Dorothy Leighty, Mary Lipscomb, Margaret May, Marguerite MacPherson, Martha Marcey, Marion McNeir, Evelyn Mitchell, Esther Murray, Bessie Muse, Clara Nourse, Ann Petty, Dorothy Potterton, Rachael Rogers, Catherine Rudasill, Ruth Sherwood, Josephine Smith, Helen Strickler, Elizabeth Tillson, Vivian Vaughan, Dorothy Via, Rose Withauer, Nora Woodward, Lina Stearns and Lilith Thompson.

Seen roaming the streets in Virginia Highlands at an early hour yesterday morning, Robert Walker, colored, was arrested by Officers Jack Conway and Edward Duncan. Searching the man they found concealed under his coat an automobile jack and other tools generally used in changing tires.

He was taken to the county jail, where he is being held for further investigation.

ALEXANDRIA TRADE MANAGER TO SPEAK

Dan S. Hollenga Expected at Chamber of Commerce Meeting Tonight.

VOTE FOR COUNCIL NEAR

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

A meeting of the full membership of the Chambes of Commerce will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the George Mason Hotel, when it i sexpected that Dan S. Hollenga, the newly elected business manager, will make his first appearance in Alexandria and will deliver an address. A number of committees will also submit reports, one of them being that of Chairman Sidney Weil on the proposed week-end trip by the Triangle Chambers of Northern Virginia to Orkney Springs.

Mr. Hollenga, who has been connected with the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce for the last nine years, will assume his duties here July 1. He was chosen for the post after careful scrutiny of the credentials of more than 60 applicants by a committee, of which Frank W. Noxon is chairman. He is a native of Holland, and came to this country in 1914. He was engaged in chamber of commerce work in North Carolina, but left there to enter the Army in 1917. He has been in Petersburg since 1921, and when the committee was canvassing the field of candidates for the Alexandria position he was highly recommended both by officials of Petersburg and by the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington.

The employment of a business manager for the local trade body is the outcome of the recent membership campaign, in which $25,000 a year for three years was pledged for the purpose of bringing new industries to Alexandria, this being the principal work of the business manager.

The two independent candidates for city council in the general election which will be held tomorrow—L. B. Alexander and O. P. Angelo—are both making active eleventh-hour campaigns, and both have issued statements as to their platforms.

Mr. Alexander stresses several aims which he will press if elected. There are the securing for Alexandria of new industries which will bring an increased pay roll to the city and thereby benefit the merchants; the improvement of streets and sidewalks, particularly in the newly-annexed territory; the establishment of a public park, and the abolishing of the city automobile tax.

Mr. Angelo is opposed to extending the franchise for electric light and power as recently proposed, and states he does not believe it wise or discreet for the city council or city officials to accept the hospitality of or to banquet with representatives of any corporation which may hold a franchise, or which is contemplating asking for a franchise; he is opposed to the city automobile tax; he deplores the fact that the city council is spending a large sum outside of the city for city assessment of property; he opposes the increase of commutation rates on the electric railway; he opposes the discharge of family men over 50 years of age in order to reduce expenses or increase profits of a corporation; he favors prompt improvements of streets and roadways in the newly annxed territory, and believes in larger schools and playgrounds, and that school committee members and school superintendents should be men and women of family, with experience in school work.

None of the three Democratic nominees—Edmund F. Ticer, Clyde C. Lamond and Arthur Herbert—has issued a statement.

There are approximately 5,850 qualified voters in Alexandria, of whom 4,250 are in the older section and approximately 1,600 in the newly annexed portion. It is thought that, owing to the lack of interest so far shown, not more than 2,000 votes will be polled, and even this number will be a large vote as compared with the vote cast in former general elections, when the Democratic nomination was equivalent to election, which some consider doubtful in this case.

The funeral of Mrs. Gertrude A. Gemeny, who died on Friday in a Washington hospital, will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon from Demaine's Chapel, conducted by the Rev. Lindsey and Mrs. Harvey Crump, of this city, and four sons, Richard H. Gemeny and Albin Gemeny, of Washington; Harold Gemeny, of Richmond, and Melville Gemeny, of Alexandria.

The funeral of Mrs. Veronica Ewald, widow of Leo Josef Ewald, who died on Thursday, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today from St. Mary's Catholic Church, with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mrs. Sarah M. Slingerland, widow of J. W. Slingerland, died on Friday at he home of her daughter, Mrs. R. H. Gallahan, 102 North Columbus street, and the body will be sent at noon today o Belle Haven Church. Prince William County, Va., where funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock. The deceased is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Gallahan, of this city; Mrs. Ida R. Roles and Mrs. Ada B. Gallahan, of Dumfries, Va.; two sons, John J. UNIVERSITY STUDENT KILLED IN CAR CRASH

West Virginia Youth and Three Hurt in Wreck at Charlottesville.

GIRL IS BADLY INJURED

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 8—John Ferguson, 20, of Huntington, W. Va., first-year student in the college department of the University of Virginia, was killed and three others injured in an automobile wreck this morning 5 miles west of the city.

Six young people were in the La Salle roadster owned by Phil B. Harder, of New York City, another student, on their return from a visit to a swimming pool in the county. Near the airport of the Dixie Flying Service, Inc., the machine failed to make a sharp curve and went over an embankment, crashing into a wire fence. All of the occupants were thrown clear of the car.

Two of the young women in the party, Miss Charlotte Brown, of Huntington, W. Va., and Miss Isabelle Hunt, of Cincinnati, students at Sweet Briar College, were rendered unconscious. Miss Flo Brown, sister of Charlotte, was unhurt. Miss Hunt received bad cuts about the head and face, while Miss Charlotte Brown sustained a fractured pelvis and a broken collar bone.

Harder, a student in the academic department, suffered a broken arm, while William S. Moye, jr., of Rocky Mount, N. C., a junior in the law department, escaped injury.

Young Ferguson was a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ferguson, of Huntington. In addition to his parents, he is survived by one sister. The Misses Brown, accompanied by Miss Hunt, came here from Sweet Briar to attend the commencement exercises. They have a brother in the University Law School.

INCREASED TAXES?

The Senate is expected to pass the World War veteran relief bill as it has been amended by the finance committee. The bill as passed by the House would require a minimum expenditure of $189,000,000 a year, according to Gen. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau, and might run up to $400,000,000. The Senate committee proposes to reduce the expenditure to $74,000,000 a year.

One of the arguments that will be offered in behalf of the bill is that it will stave off a World War pension system which would cost $3,000,000,000 a year.

Democrats as well as Republicans on the committee favor the bill as it has been changed. Hence it may be assumed that it will pass the Senate, notwithstanding warnings from the President and the Treasury Department that a deficit would be created, making necessary an increase of taxation. Naturally, President Hoover is anxious to avoid a deficit, and still more anxious to avoid an increase of taxation. The $160,000,000 reduction of taxation accomplished in his first year went far to offset the effects of the economic depression, but that depression still prevails, and an increase in Federal taxes would be very obnoxious at this time.

In answer to the warning against incurring a deficit it will be contended that additional relief for World War veterans is unavoidable; that the money disbursed in their behalf will be equivalent to the appropriation of funds for public works to relieve unemployment; and that unless the relief bill is enacted a pension system will be jammed through Congress, necessitating a bond issue. Senators who hold this view conjure up the specter of that bond issue that wrecked the Cleveland administration. They believe that they are choosing the lesser of two evils when they vote for a relief bill that costs $74,000,000 a year.

Thus President Hoover faces an extremely difficult situation, emphasized by the burden that will be imposed by the river and harbor bill if the budget estimates should be greatly exceeded. Pleas for restriction of appropriations will have no effect so far as the river and harbor bill is concerned. All senators and representatives are interested in this bill. It is scheduled for passage following enactment of the tariff bill. The money to be released for river and harbor work will ameliorate the unemployment situation—that is the first argument in Congress. It is also submitted that unless river and harbor projects are carried forward the work already done will deteriorate or be money entirely wasted. There is merit in this suggestion. Mr. Hoover will be reminded, also, that as a candidate he strongly advocated improvement of inland waterways and foreshadowed public work expenditures approximating $1,000,000,000 within a few years.

A veto of the veterans' relief bill is said to be probable. It may be that Mr. Hoover will feel compelled to veto the bill in the hope of avoiding a deficit. But the pressure exerted upon Congress in behalf of the bill is so strong that a veto probably would be ineffective.

UNDER THE OLD CAPITOL.

Are there any silver spoons buried in that tract of land on Capitol Hill which is to become the site of the Supreme Court Building? Miss Fannie Wolfson, who once lived in New Orleans, is quite sure that when the old buildings are wrecked and the excavators start their steam shovels there will be unearthed "treasure trove" in great quantities. Miss Wolfson is one of those daughters of the South who can not get over the idea that vast quantities of precious metal—possibly the self-same spoons which Gen. Ben Butler is supposed to have swiped from the homes of the New Orleans quality, may have been deposited in the grounds of the "Old Capitol" Building.

Whether or not there is really any loot buried in the soil soon to be disturbed, Miss Wolfson is quite certain that the two moss-covered headstones, from which the inscriptions, if there ever were any, are worn away, mark the resting place of Confederate soldiers buried there during the Civil War. Miss Wolfson has resided in the old building for some years, and it was she who made the discovery of the graves. Now, together with Mrs. Charles Taylor, Miss Wolfson is endeavoring to secure authority for the removal to Arlington of the ashes of these supposed Confederate spies. But there is some doubt that those marble slabs really mark the graves of any one, soldier or civilian. The archives of the War Department fail to reveal that either man or treasure was ever buried in the cellar or any other part of the site occupied by the buildings once used as the "Capitol of the United States." However, the steam shovel men are likely to keep a sharp lookout.

JESSE C. ADKINS.

President Hoover has nominated Jesse C. Adkins, former president of the District Bar Association, to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Mr. Adkins has been a resident of the District for almost 50 years. He received his entire education in local schools, having been graduated in law from Georgetown University in 1899. Because of his long and intimate association with the District, the nomination of Mr. Adkins to this post of high honor and great responsibility is peculiarly pleasing to the public.

Mr. Adkins is a fearless and an able prosecutor. As Assistant Attorney General he represented the Government in important cases brought under the Sherman antitrust laws, his handling of which brought him wide recognition. In addition, he is an authority on the law. During the past year he has served as chairman of a committee appointed by the local bar association to study the administration of justice in the District with a view of making recommendations for its improvement. The insight he gained through prosecuting this study should stand him in good stead as a justice.

The nomination of Mr. Adkins is before the Senate judiciary committee. A favorable report may be anticipated and early confirmation by the Senate is to be expected.

STANDARDIZING BEVERAGES.

If there is anything in the line of human endeavor, or any material needed in the maintenance of human life or pleasure which has not been "studied" by one of the bureaus of the Department of Agriculture the omission is an oversight. The Department has a formula, prepared primarily for the use of its 2,100 county agents, under which the price of hogs two years hence can be predicted by any one who is adept in higher mathematics, the problems of Euclid, logarithms, sines and cosines. The wife of the owner of a herd of hogs has only to write to the department to obtain a beautifully illustrated pamphlet which will teach her how to make swaddling clothes for baby or graduating dresses for daughter who attends high school over in the county seat.

Now the department undertakes to standardize the ice cream soda.

No longer will there be a pleasant mystery in the drinks and concoctions dispensed by the soda clerk. The food standards committee of the department has defined root beer, root beer flavor and root beer concentrate, as it may be differentiated from birch beer, and so on through cream soda water, cream soda water flavor and likewise the flavors of such fruits as the orange, the lemon and the lime, so hereafter when a chocolate dream delight is ordered, a chocolate dream delight will be served.

But root beer, pop and ice cream soda are beverages of yesterday. The Department of Agriculture will not have fulfilled its duty of safeguarding the public until it defines and standardizes the more assertive flavors that enjoy popularity today.

NEW YORK'S HOUSING PROBLEM.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith becomes president of the Housing Association of the City of New York, an organization recently formed by public spirited citizens to provide better low-cost housing, to give the public a better understanding of the city's housing needs, and to provide a vehicle for the small contributor to aid in housing projects. With the dynamic Al Smith at its head, the organization promises to take a position of leadership in the solution of a problem that is recognized generally as of major importance.

Because New York is a tight little island in which a population is compressed to the saturation point, its housing problem is more difficult than that of most cities, and the solution, if found, will point the way toward solution elsewhere. In Washington, population can expand outward into the suburbs as it can in most other cities, but humankind is gregarious and tends to compress its dwelling places in small areas. The automobile, the trolley car and other modern mediums of transportation by which the suburbs are brought closer to the city have prevented the housing problem in most cities from becoming insoluble. Nevertheless, there is need of cheaper living facilities, and in every city there are slum or alley areas in which crime breeds and human beings live in want and squalor.

The Housing Association of the City of New York faces problems the like of which similar organizations in other cities will never have to face. If they can be solved; if New York's tenement dwellers can be provided with hygienic, comfortable living places at prices they can afford to pay, there is no reason why the lower-salaried groups everywhere can not be provided with proper living accommodations. The housing problem has only recently come to the forefront of attention, but it commands the attention of public-spirited citizens everywhere.

ILL-ADVISED EXACTIONS.

The question of automobile license reciprocity between the District and neighboring States was presumed to be settled when a gasoline tax was imposed in the District. From time to time since, however, Maryland and Virginia have attempted to restrict the operation within their borders of vehicles carrying only District licenses. At present a truck-tag war is threatened. The motor vehicle commissioners at Richmond and Annapolis have ordered District truck operators to obtain State tags if they intend to continue operating outside the District, and in Virginia arrests have been made for failure to comply with the order.

These recurring tag wars arise from the fact that automobile licenses cost considerably less in the District than in either Maryland or Virginia. On the surface, it appears that the operator of a truck licensed in the District at a cost of $1 has a competitive advantage over the operator of a truck licensed in either of the States, at costs ranging upward to as much as $200. But the difference in license fees is equalized by the tax rate. The fact that local truck operators do not pay as much for their licenses as those of Maryland and Virginia does not mean that they escape paying an excessive share of the cost of the District government.

Virginia and Maryland stand to lose far more than does the District if the campaign against trucks licensed in the District is carried to the limit. Under the reciprocity agreement, the District can be expected to retaliate by requiring foreign truck operators to obtain District licenses, and, inasmuch as the owners of such vehicles would escape the full tax burden of truck ownership as it falls upon local owners, it might be found necessary to bring the fee for truck licenses to a point where it would absorb this tax.

The truck garden and dairying industries in the counties near Washington may be ruined if State authorities persist in their ill-advised campaign of discrimination against the District of Columbia.

Uncle Sam's employes now number 587,000. That'll be news to those who thought there were that many in the prohibition unit.

CANADA LENDS A HAND

From the London Times.

"Bootlegging," is a flourishing industry in the United States, where it continues to provide the authorities with many anxious problems. Unfortunately its activities are not confined to the land of prohibition, and Canada has found herself compelled to take a hand in solving, or attempting to solve, one of the most dangerous of the problems which the great American experiment has created. A bill to provide that official clearance will no longer be given to liquor consigned to the United States has now passed its third reading in the Canadian Senate, having been carried through all its stages in both houses by large majorities. It is expected to be put into operation on June 1, when liquor passing from Canada into the United States will have to be smuggled out of the one country as well as into the other. [The bill has become law and is now in operation.] The bill is the result of a double pressure on the Canadian government, from the United States authorities, and from large sections of Canadians, who felt that it was indecent to give official countenance to a traffic which violated the laws of a friendly and neighboring country, and who felt, moreover, that the "bootlegging" community along the frontier was becoming a nuisance which Canada would be wise to suppress in her own interests.

Many Canadians resented the pressure from the United States, and were inclined to say that it was no business of theirs if the United States found difficulties in enforcing prohibition; but they had little sympathy with the "rumrunner" or with the trail of crime and corruption which generally followed him. The situation along the border, with an army of smugglers on one side and an army of prohibition enforcement agents on the other, had begun to present alarming possibilities. On the Canadian side of the frontier opposite Detroit peaceful Canadian citizens had been wounded, and others had had narrow escapes from gunfire, along the river front. Sooner or later some tragic accident was bound to occur provoking an outbreak of feeling and straining the friendship between the two countries.

The real opposition to the bill came from those who doubted, not the evils it is intended to remedy, but whether it will not be more likely to intensify them. Only twelve months ago Mr. W. D. Euler, the minister for national revenue in the federal cabinet, to whose department the subject belongs, refused to bring in any such measure on the ground that it would not prevent the traffic, but merely drive it underground, and lead to corruption of the customs officials on the Canadian side of the border similar to that which already prevails on the other. He has since changed his opinion, or, more probably, has been overruled by his colleagues in the government. Only the working of the new system will show whether he or they were the better judges of the situation. In any case, however, the bill is a convincing proof of the readiness of the Canadian government and Parliament to cooperate with the United States authorities in their efforts to suppress the traffic.

THE LONG PULL.

It matters very little to the winner of the race
That he stumbled as he started and was back in seventh place,
And the early frets and losses shrink to trifles very small
To the leader of a battle if he wins it after all.

It's the long pull that's important, not the present rainy day
If the autumn crop is splendid none bewails the gloomy May.
For the trials and the troubles are but incidents of time
Which are speedily forgotten when the bells of victory chime.

Oh, the skies are gray this morning and the wind is blowing cold,
But some lovely day in summer when the rose buds pink unfold,
And we walk among the blossoms where the sunbeams brightly fall
'Twould be strange if we remembered it had ever rained at all.

You Can't Farm a Thousand Acres If Your Only Tool Is a Spade.

ADOLPH ZUKOR is a big man.

He is president of Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, largest of motion picture producers.

Considered as a great executive, as a bold adventurer, as one who influences the trend of civilization, or merely as a rich man, he ranks among the leaders.

Recently he visited the village of his nativity in Hungary and there was a celebration in his honor.

"We hail you," said the mayor, "as the greatest citizen of our village."

To you that seems amusing, but the mayor was sincere and serious.

He paid the greatest compliment of which he was capable.

The village was his universe, in which he himself was a person of no little importance, and he could envision no higher honor than that of being its greatest citizen.

There you have the perfect "hick."

Men speak of the age-old conflict between country and town, but in reality it is a conflict between the provincial and the cosmopolitan—between the man who cannot think beyond his horizon and the man who sees the earth and its problems as a unit.

It isn't his place of abode but his state of mind that makes the "hick."

He may live on a farm and dream of building a barn as large as his neighbor's.

He may live in a village and nurse an ambition to be mayor or hope to become as rich as the local Shylock.

He may live in a city of millions and regard himself as both cultured and sophisticated, and yet be unable to think beyond the city limits.

He thinks his own section of America the only one truly civilized.

He thinks Rockefeller the world's richest man, Ford the greatest of business men, Edison the greatest of scientists.

He thinks America the richest nation per capita, and Americans the most literate of people.

If he is a senator or representative, he thinks his chief duty is to get something for the folks back home.

Whatever and wherever he is, a narrow horizon makes him a provincial.

And since a man can be no bigger than the terms he thinks in, his habit of thinking in small terms dooms him to be small.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

EVANGELINE REVISED.

This is the forest primeval. The murmuring hikers and tourists
Covered with dust, and with garments brief and opaque in the sunlight,
Stand there like oafs on a lark, with voices strained and discordant,
Stand like cartoons by Goldberg, when Goldberg feels merry.
Loud from its rocky caverns the deep-voiced neighboring ocean
Speaks, but the roar of the picnickers drowns out its message.

• • • •

This is the forest primeval; but where are the hearts that beneath it
Leaped like the roe, when he hears in the woodland the voice of the huntsman?
Where is the thatch-roofed village, the homes of Acadian farmers?
Where are the cowbarns, the sheep and the goats and the chickens?

• • • •

Gone are those pleasant farms to make way for the oil filling stations,
The frankfurter stands and the shacks of the hamburger sandwich,
The barbecue pork and the inn of the one-dollar dinner,
The orange-drink stand and the lemon and strawberry cream cone.

• • • •

In the Acadian land, on the shore of the Basins of Grand Pre
Distant, secluded, still, the little village of Grand Pre
Lay in the fruitful valley. Vast meadows stretched to the eastward,
Giving the village its name, and pasture to flocks without number.
Somewhat apart from the village and nearer the Basin of Minas,
Benedict Bellefontaine, the wealthiest farmer of Grand Pre,
Dwelt on his good acres; and with him, directing his household,
Gentle Evangeline lived, his child and the pride of the village.
Firmly builded with rafters of oak, the house of the farmer
Stood on the side of a hill, commanding the sea, and a shady
Sycamore grew by the door with no "Tourist Rest" fastened upon it;
Rudely carved was the porch which nowhere displayed an "Antiques" sign,
Nor "Waffles," "Sweet Cider," "Flats Fixed" or "Fresh County Tomatoes."
Further down the slope of the hill was the well, with the moss-grown
Bucket, fastened with iron, and near it the trough of the horses;
There stood the broad-wheeled wains and the ancient plows and the harrows.

• • • •

Thus, at peace with God and the world, the farmer of Grand Pre
Lived on his sunny farm and Evangeline governed his household.
Happy were they until one day there passed on his journey a stranger
Whose eye caught the old-fashioned home and the old-fashioned settings around it;
That ended dad and Evangeline, the house and the old oaken bucket;
Carted to Dearborn were they as a part of the Hank Ford collection!

• • • •

Still stands the forest primeval; but under the shade of its branches
Dwells another race, with other customs and language,
Eating hot-dogs and consuming much popcorn and peanuts,
Spreading the pie plates and wrappers and crusts o'er the landscape;
While from its rocky caverns the deep-voiced neighboring ocean
Speaks, and in accents disconsolate answers the forest, "Baloney"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Points Which the Traffic Advisory Committee Might Consider in Its Endeavor to Relieve Congestion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A very serviceable step in the direction of improved traffic regulation has been taken in the appointment of a traffic advisory committee whose efficiency will not be questioned. Having revised the traffic rules, making them as uniform as practicable for all kinds of travel under all conditions, it can do good work studying where and how to widen and straighten thoroughfares with an eye to what will be the extraordinary needs of the not distant future.

I might speak of a present bothersome situation, by way of example. At Thomas and Dupont Circles, when travel is at the peak, the jam is so bad that a large section of the city is kept in a constant state of irritation. Now, it is not likely that all the motorists in that section are forced to pass those particular points on their way downtown and back home again. It is likely that in some cases they merely yield to the common human weakness which impels one to follow the crowd. There must be some of them who, without the loss of more than a minute or so of time, could avoid the jam at these circles, as well as at other places, and so solve one of the minor problems of traffic congestion.

It seems to me that the traffic advisory committee might be helpful in situations such as this. It could zone the localities involved and suggest traffic routes for motorists of the various zones, so that unnecessary jams at circles and other crossings would not be of such frequent occurrence.

Incident to this suggestion it is noticeable that north and south thoroughfares between downtown and upper Washington are inadequate. That is the fault of incompetent officials who in the laying out of streets merely planned for the present.

The sum that would be required to lay a perfect system of streets between old and new Washington is prohibitive. But one of the chief tasks of the traffic advisory committee should be to study to what extent and how, in consideration of future needs, this grievous traffic defect may be remedied.

Charlie Dawes Coming Back? It's Hard to Believe, But Anyhow, Get the Band Ready.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What's this we hear about Charlie Dawes coming home from London Town? Surely that must be a mistake, for the old boy has been having the time of his young life. If ever an American was born to hobnob with kings and queens, dukes and dukesses, piedes and plebeians, it is this same youthful, hard smoking and loud swearing ambassador of ours. He was cut out for his present job and fate gave him a special training to fit him for every detail of it. And now he wants to duck his duty and come home. All because of the social climbers, it is said.

Well, who can blame him? The greatest king who ever lived, and the ablest diplomat, David, the son of Jesse, said: "I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my Lord than to dwell in the tents of wickedness."

Who is there among us whose blood is not so ripe and ruddy that he would not prefer a sod hut on the prairies of Illinois or Nebraska to a thousand-windowed castle in Mayfair? If such there be, go mark him well: he is no true American.

Life has been rather dull since Our Charlie went away. The old boys on the Hill have had no one to cuss 'em out; our speech has been livened by no new naughty word; and pipe smoking has declined along with belief in the monkey theory and the ineffable bliss of silk underwear.

It will be a glad day for all of us when Our Charlie comes home again. We earnestly hope that Herbert Hoover will declare a national holiday in commemoration of the event, and that all of us will be invited to the party, including the very regular and sorely snubbed Senator Hastings, of Delaware. By all means include him and Calvin Coolidge. We need both of 'em at this fiesta. C. P. B.

Why Not Have a Laugh Now and Then?—The World Too Puritanical.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In his memorial and forgotten letters to Thomas Clarkson, the English abolitionist, Gov. James H. Hammond, of South Carolina, thanked God that the South had never been cursed with isms of any sort—particularly religious cults. Ha, ha!

It was in South Carolina and near the home of Gov. Hammond that a monument to Adam was erected by Robert Quillen, the Kansas humorist, who proved his mettle by editing a small country paper in the Palmetto State.

Nobody but a Kansas humorist would have thought of commemorating such a man in such a way. It was done in a moment when few of us survivors believed in Adam, and it helped us all. If Gov. Hammond and his co-laborers had had some of Quillen's humor, might not the South have been spared some trouble? Humor is a quality that the world very much needs today. It is the serious minded people who do the world the most harm—the mad Hamlet and not the fat Jack Falstaffs.

In our day and generation our whole intellectual and moral slant is puritanical. All the joy is being taken out of life, as if it were a sin to crack a joke, to smile at the foibles of our fellow man, or to laugh when and at whatever we please.

We forget that God could laugh and did laugh. "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh," says the psalmist. "The Lord shall laugh at him: for he seeth that his day is coming." F. P. MORSE.

Artists Plan Organ-Violin Recital Soon

Archibold Home Will Be Used, With Talented Amateurs Playing.

By JEAN ELIOT.

At the home of Mrs. Anne Archbold in the hills beyond Georgetown, which boasts one of the finest organs in Washington, a concert for organ and violin will be given some time during the early summer, with two of the Capital's most gifted amateur violinists, Mrs. Duncan McKim and Mr. Andre Cattaui, of the Egyptian Legation, presenting the program.

They are now busy practising a difficult and beautiful Bach concerto for two violins and the organ, which is to be the feature of the concert, and Mr. Boyce, organist of St. Matthew's Church, is to be at the keyboard of Mrs. Archbold's fine instrument.

Although she plays only for her friends' entertainment and her own enjoyment, Mrs. McKim is a musician of professional caliber. Mr. Cattaui, too, is a violinist with a great natural talent and a cultivated technique. Moreover, he plays quite regularly with a small chamber music orchestra, which he organized. His artistic gifts are diverse, for he uses the brush as deftly as the bow and his pastels and sketches of Washington's pretty maids and matrons are becoming quite famous. He has never exhibited, although often urged to do so, and paints entirely for his own pleasure.

In their beautiful house on Eighteenth street Dr. and Mrs. McKim have a marvelous organ and their music room is frequently the scene of delightful informal gatherings of music lovers. The Mexican Embassy also boasts a fine organ, installed when the house was built by the late Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh as a birthday present for her husband while he was serving as Secretary of the Treasury. Other Washington mansions, which have organs as part of their equipment for entertaining are Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh's house at 2020 Massachusetts avenue; Esta Brook, the country home of Col. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Corby's handsome residence in Chevy Chase.

Ambassador and Mrs. Edge Attend Fete for Sightless.

Among the brilliant parties opening the June season in Paris was the charity fete for the blind which counted among its visitors of distinction the Ambassador to France and Mrs. Walter E. Edge who were the guests that day, June 4, of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Wall, as were Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel and Mrs. Rutherford Stuyvesant. Also at the fete were the French Ambassador and Mme. Claudel who were guests of the Vicomtesse of Faramonde, formerly Miss Ivy Langham, of New York. During the afternoon Miss Mary McCormic gave a program of music.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman Back from Virginia Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman have returned to Washington after a trip through the James River region of Virginia with the Minister of Canada and Mrs. Vincent Massey. Leaving Washington on Friday morning the party motored to Richmond, where they were entertained at luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Weddell at Virginia House, their beautiful estate on the edge of town. Later they went on to Westover on the James to be guests overnight of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crane. Next day they were guests of Gen. and Mrs. Cocke on their yacht for a cruise on the James, visiting Claremont, home of Gen. and Mrs. Cocke, Brandon and other famous plantations.

When Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman returned to town on Saturday night, the Canadian Minister and Mrs. Massey went to Virginia Beach. They will be at the Cavalier Hotel for most of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman were at home yesterday afternoon at Tuxedo, their home in Edgemoor, as is their custom on Sunday afternoons. In the evening they had an informal buffet supper party for some of the guests who had remained through the afternoon to enjoy outdoor games.

Mr. Addison E. Southard, Minister and Consul General at Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, is sailing for his post on Wednesday on the S. S. Leviathan. Mr. Southard is accompanied by Mrs. Southard and son, Mr. Patrick Southard.

Having been appointed collector of customs for the Galveston District by President Hoover, Mr. Robert B. Morris, of Houston, will reach Washington this week from Galveston. He will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Monroe Nichols of Valley Vista Apartments.

Miss Elsa Diedrich was married on Saturday at Octorara, Md., at the residence of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hale, to Mr. Jotham Johnson. The ceremony was performed at noon by the Rev. J. R. Marley Case, of Darlington, Md. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will spend the summer in Europe.

Sailing on the Leviathan Wednesday to his new post as Naval Attache with the Embassy in Rome, is Capt. McGillivray Milne. Capt. Milne is accompanied by Mrs. Milne and his son and daughter.

Marshalls Return From Berwyck Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Lewis Marshall have returned from a visit with Maj. and Mrs. Frederick Matteson at their country house at Berwyck, Pa. Also guests at the house party were Mrs. A. Deichman and Miss Matteson, sister of Maj. Matteson.

Miss Edith N. Stanton, of Los Angeles, Calif., is at the Dodge Hotel for several days, en route to New York.

Representative and Mrs. Clyde Kelly and children are visiting at Virginia Beach and are at the Cavalier Hotel.

A portrait of Dr. William Carl Ruediger, dean of the School of Education, George Washington University, will be presented by the alumni and faculty of the School of Education to the University.

Because he is an alumnus of the University and long has been recognized by European critics as an outstanding portraitist, Mr. Felix Conrad Schwartz was commissioned to paint the portrait of Dr. Ruediger. Mr. Schwartz—who has achieved success not only as a portrait painter, but also as a dramatist, essayist and short-story writer—has in former years painted many portraits of the George Washington faculty, including Profs. Schmidt, Swisher, Ragatz, Bement and Baker.

Mrs. David W. Todd has gone to Newport, where she will pass the season.

Miss Carolyn Shields Wed to Nelson Cheney.

In the gardens of the estate of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Shields, at Piandome, Long Island, Miss Carolyn Shields, of Highland Park, Ill., yesterday became the bride of Mr. Nelson Weaver Cheney, of Roanoke Plantation, Randolph, Va.

Ropes of hothouse smilax looped to posts of peonies formed the long wedding aisle to the candle-lighted altar which had been erected of silver columns roofed with large clusters of white peonies. Cybotium ferns were placed between the columns.

The bride wore a princess gown of white satin trimmed with a deep bertha of rare duchesse lace and long sleeves. Her tulle veil fell from a cap of the same lace and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids.

Mrs. Robert McCormick Shields was matron of honor. Her gown of powder blue chiffon had a fitted bodice with three-quarter length sleeves and a full skirt. A picture hat and slippers of rose pink completed the costume and she carried an arm bouquet of deep pink roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Viola Shields and Miss Elizabeth Shields, sisters of the bride. Both wore Chanel gowns of silk lace, one of blue and the other of pink, made with deep berthas of the lace and straight-lined flounced skirts. Their hats were of blue hair with a trimming of pink and blue and they carried arm bouquets of blue delphinium, pink sweet peas and sweetheart roses.

Mr. Gerald Cheney, of Roanoke Plantation, Va., brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. William Rodd, of Pittsburgh, and Mr. Charles Culver Shields and Mr. Robert McCormick Shields, brothers of the bride. Mr. James Culver Shields, brother of the bride, gave his sister in marriage. The Rev. Dr. Wilbur Morgan, of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York, officiating.

The bride and bridegroom received the congratulations of their guests in a bower of cybotium ferns entwined with pink roses. The tables also were set out of doors, the bridal table being decorated with valley lilies and pink roses, and the others with bowls of summer garden flowers. Mrs. Harry Conant Tillman, of Chicago and Detroit, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. E. E. Whitney, mother of the hostess, were in the receiving lines.

Among the guests were Gen. and Mrs. William A. Mann, of Washington.

After their wedding trip the couple will live at Mr. Cheney's ancestral home, Roanoke Plantation, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Silas Brown, of Takoma Park, Md., have sent out invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Norma E. Brown, and Mr. Maurice A. Enright, son of Mr. James J. Enright, at 5 o'clock on Wednesday, June 18, in St. Gabriel's Church. The Rev. William J. Sweeney will officiate.

Miss Brown has chosen for her attendants Miss Angela J. Sheehan, maid of honor, and Miss Jean McCloskey and Miss Dorothy King as bridesmaids. Miss Hazel Beall and Magdolin Hoffman will be flower girls. Mildred Gant will be ring bearer.

Mr. Enright will have as his best man Mr. Calvin Brown, brother of the bride; Mr. Joseph Enright, Mr. James Enright, Mr. Anthony Sheehan and Mr. William Sheehan, brothers of the bridegroom, will be ushers.

Dr. and Mrs. William Oakley Haines will return Thursday to their apartment in the Sherman, following a week's rest in the Virginia mountains.

Mr. Carl Woerner has returned to Pittsburgh after several days' stay with his mother, Mrs. Otto Woerner.

Mrs. Skirball, Children Return to Boston.

Mrs. Louis Skirball and children, Frank and Henry, have returned to their home in Boston after a fortnight's visit in town.

Miss Harriet Sanger has gone to New York and Boston for a visit and will attend commencement exercises at Wellesley College.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher, of Philadelphia, were recent guests in town.

The board of managers of the Presbyterian Home for the Aged, of which Mrs. Brainard H. Warner is president, is making elaborate plans for the garden party to be given tomorrow and Wednesday from 3 until 9 o'clock. The home for some years has occupied Ingleside, the interesting old estate at 1818 Newton street, which still possesses the dignity and charm of other days.

Mrs. Harvey S. Irwin is chairman of the committee arranging the party, with the following assistants: Mrs. Edwin M. Ladd, aprons; Mrs. Estelle Allen, utilities; Mrs. Spencer Armstrong, thrift table; Miss Margaret North, candy; Mrs. William Henry White, cakes; Mrs. Mary J. Benjamin, ice cream; Mrs. George Cummings, flowers; Mrs. James W. Newton, music; Miss Cornelia Cotton, publicity. Mr. John B. Larner is president of the board of trustees, and Mrs. E. B. Creager is superintendent of the home.

The Sacred Heart Guild of the Sacred Heart Home, at Hyattsville, Md., will hold the second annual card party and luncheon at the home on Saturday afternoon, June 21. DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

FORMER Senator Jim Reed, of Missouri, is the third Democratic Presidential aspirant, to take a fall out of the Radio Corporation of America, the other two being Senators Wheeler and Dill.

This may be significant in view of the fact that Owen D. Young, chairman of the R. C. A., a Democrat, is also supposed to be equipped with Presidential earphones.

An American manufacturer asked George Bernard Shaw to tune in on one of our transatlantic programs. Back came a cable:

"Certainly not! It is bad enough to have to listen to so many English ones."

A DESCRIPTION from the ringside of the Schmeling-Sharkey fight will be given in German in the hope that it may be picked up by short waves in Berlin and broadcast throughout Germany.

Floyd Gibbons will probably go on a barnstorming tour, aboard a specially equipped Pullman, where people can see as well as hear him broadcast.

One of the longest lines ever used from a remote control point single station is being hooked up to carry the description of the tarpon fishing tournament from Sarasota, Fla., to Station WLW, Cincinnati, tomorrow night (WLW, 8:30 p. m.).

AN indignant listener telephoned The Post to report the nonappearance of the Crockett Mountaineers last Thursday and the fact that WMAL had substituted another program without making any explanation.

Several attempts, she said, were made to communicate with the station, but there was no answer. The station explained later that the circuit was not properly made up by Columbia engineers, and therefore WMAL was not able to join the network for presentation of the Mountaineers.

Another disappointment for the audience was when Amy Johnson, British girl flier, now in Sydney, Australia, failed to uphold her end of the two-way chat advertised to take place between herself and Miss Elinor Smith on Friday.

The explanation offered by WRC was that Miss Johnson was too worn out from the festivities following her recent flight from the British Isles to Sydney to participate. However, this failed to sooth the nerves of some of the listeners who arose at 6 a. m. to hear the conversation.

Charles Marshall, tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera, will be heard from the Chicago Board of Trade banquet over a national network this evening (WMAL, 10 p. m.).

Station WOL in a new "Sports Hour" beginning this afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, will give the results each half inning of all baseball games in both the American and National Leagues.

WHEN Doc Rockwell (Quack! Quack!) appeared for the curtain raiser of the "Pleasure Hour" last week, the Shuberts got out an injunction claiming that he was under contract to appear exclusively for them. In addition the Shuberts seek $100,000 damages from the actor for breach of contract.

The second performance of the "Pleasure Hour" is to be given Wednesday night (WJZ, 8:30). Including talent, station time, wire tolls and all the cost of putting this program on for 52 weeks will reach the dazzling figure of $1,000,000, according to reports.

Sponsors of Will Rogers' Sunday night talks, soon to conclude, are not expected to renew their contract.

It is proposed to connect sixteen Hawaiian Islands by radio-telephone.

THE Arkansas Gazette inquires: "Wouldn't this new radio device that automatically tunes in stations cause a lot more unemployment?"

Italian Air Force Stages Show.

Rome, June 8 (A.P.).—The Italian air force held the greatest display of its history this afternoon, 300 planes performing before Premier Mussolini, King Victor Emmanuel, other members of the royal family and a great crowd. The feature was a bombing attack on a desert village; imitative of recent Italian conquests in North Africa.

Jane Enterprets the MODE

Another smart example of the vogue of black and white; wool coat and lighter weight wool dress, with a scarf in black and yellow check. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

Paris, June 8.

PERHAPS the most generally popular material this season is the pin-dot print. And inevitably, deservedly so, for it has an undeniable air of smartness about it. It is conservative yet attractive; it is practical for dressy wear and for sport according to the mode in which it is fashioned. It is equally lovely in heavy material or in light silk and therefore lends itself admirably to ensemble duty.

For instance, in black and white—a black wool coat, with the tiny white dots, and a touch of ermine for intrigue, a crepe de chine frock of the same print neatly incrustated and enhanced with white georgette "lingerie touches." And a chic chapeau of the beret type with white grosgrain ribbon bands framing the face makes one of the smartest of smart ensembles.

The dot print may be had in the prevailing colors, red with white dots or navy blue or dark green or brown. And combined with the plain color for skirt or jacket, can not be surpassed for smartness.

* * * *

The nicest thing about the mode of off-the-face hat is the wave of hair it allows to soften miladi's face and lend her true feminine charm. The bit of hair that thus escapes is always a natural complement to skin and eyes and the hat above them.

* * * *

The ensemble wasn't a mode; it was a permanent institution. Little ensembles like the one from Bernard et Cie, which I have illustrated for you today, ensembles that are so practical and smart that women simply won't give them up, prove it.

In woolen ensembles, it is so smart now to have them match in material and color, yet the dress to be lighter weight. That's how it was in the ensemble of black with white—and then for chic a yellow and black scarf. And there's something about little flat bows that is simply irresistible!

* * * *

If you only knew. All the clever things that can be done with last season's wardrobe misfits, you would not heave such a heavy sigh and feel that all is lost. You'd send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that has to do with new clothes made from old ones that are too tight or short, but still have good material in them. Couldn't you use a sheer chiffon blouse with your new silk suit? How about the too short summer dress of last year? Do your pajamas seem worthless because they don't flare? Just wait till you get the leaflet and find out about them—and a whole lot more things.

* * * *

Of course, you're looking for the weekly Dare fashion letter each Sunday in The Washington Post.

Au revoir!

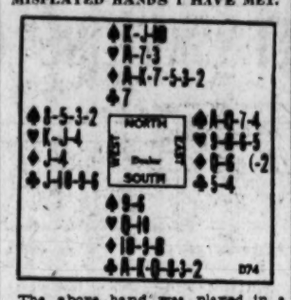
WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



The above hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South bid one Club and North obtained the contract at one No Trump.

Played at Contract, South would bid one Club, over which North would call three No Trumps or two Diamonds; the latter bid would be made to test that suit and urge South to continue the bidding. South would respond with a bid of three Clubs to indicate strength for a Club rebid and no help outside of that suit, after which North would bid three No Trumps, so the play would be the same in both games; North as Declarer striving to make nine tricks at No Trump.

When the hand was played, East started with his fourth best Heart and Declarer made a perfectly sound attempt to pick up a trick by playing dummy's Queen. But it was immaterial which Heart dummy played as West had King-Jack; he covered the Queen with the King. North held up his Ace of Hearts, and West led his Jack to trick 2. A second hold-up and a second trick for the adversaries was followed by a third Heart lead which North won with the Ace, dummy discarding a small Spade. Declarer then led North's Ace and King of Diamonds and continued with a third round which was won in dummy. Dummy led three rounds of Clubs and when the suit was not cleared, led a Spade toward closed hand and North played the King in the hope that West was holding up the Ace. It was immaterial which Spade North played, however, as East's Ace-Queen forked the King-Jack and consequently the adversaries won two Spades and four Hearts, holding the Declarer to one-odd.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

When discarding from dummy on trick 3, Declarer should have foreseen that with an even break of the four adverse Diamonds, dummy would block North's Diamonds if three cards of that suit should be kept in the South hand; but a Diamond discard on trick 3 would clear the suit for North if the adverse division be 2-2. In this hand with that discard Declarer would take one Heart, six Diamonds and three Clubs.

AMONG THE ROSES.

WHILE all rose growers must admit that roses are prone to attacks by disease and insects, they also know that healthy plants, like healthy human beings, are resistant to these troubles. Rose sanitation is as well understood by rose growers as public sanitation is by the health authorities.

In the case of the rose there are only two elements to be considered—cleanliness of the plant and cleanliness of the ground in which the plant is growing. Generally speaking, growing roses are healthy and therefore free from disease, while stunted plants are usually diseased and covered with insects.

The first thing to do to keep your roses growing is to see that they are thoroughly fertilized, and the second thing is to make sure that the fertility of the ground in which your plants are growing is not being absorbed by weeds. Much of the health of your roses will depend on the location of the bed. Rose roots will be sure to be starved if they are in close proximity to strong growing shrubbery or trees. Roses must also be planted where they is a strong circulation of air; otherwise they are apt to be attacked with mildew.

Just about this time, especially in localities where fogs are prevalent, there is a tendency to this trouble. This is usually spoken of as "powdery mildew." It is a fungus which appears in the form of grayish or whitish spots on the leaves and shoots, particularly on young growth. As a result of this disease, the leaves become deformed and the flowers cease to open naturally. Some roses are more susceptible to mildew than others. Perhaps the ramblers are more often attacked by this malady than any other class of roses.

While mildew is annoying and may prove fatal if permitted to remain, it can not only be retarded, but entirely eradicated with proper treatment.

Sulphur is the remedy for powdery mildew, and Massey Dust is the best form of sulphur to use for this purpose. This is a combination of 9 parts of dusting sulphur and 1 part of dry, powered lead arsenate. These ingredients must be intimately mixed and dusted over the plants when they are damp with dew or just after they have been sprinkled. Massey Dust is a formula which was worked out by Dr. L. M. Massey, of Cornell University, at the instance of the American Rose Society, and first published in its annual in 1918. This will not only eradicate the mildew, but will accomplish a much more important mission in controlling "black spot," a disease with a control, but no cure.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:15 a. m., from 11 a. m. to noon, and from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The world and his wife will have a good time on this date as the astrological influences are of an exhilarating and non-worrying character. Pleasures and not work will be taken seriously. The van of progress will be halted for the rejuvenation of the spirits.

The child born on this June 9 will have a well-balanced nature and will find the world in focus. It will be sturdy and healthy minded, and its parents will need have no fears for its future destiny. It will be kindly and generously disposed.

You are both naturally timid and shy, and to hide your weaknesses, you have adopted a manner which suggests conceit and aggressiveness, so as to give you a false air of superiority. This is apt to make you both unhappy and unpopular. Those who penetrate your protective mask find a person full of humility, and one who has a gentle spirit and a kindly heart. If you only realized it, the world would like, even love you, without your unnatural veneer. It would not expect you to play the role which belongs to its more positive or "nervy" people. It would let you seek its more sheltered corners without condemnation. Be satisfied to fit into the picture which Destiny has painted for you! You can never be a sturdy oak, but you need not become a parasite type of clinging vine—you can still maintain your own roots.

You are not lacking in originality, and your individuality can be strengthened. Throw away your pseudo-personalities and let your own develop! You are not a pioneer, and you will be much happier and contented if you do not allow your ambitions or circumstances to force you away from your native haunts. You do not easily make new friends, or are you easily adaptable to new places. Look for your enemies in the religious or legal world!

ELECTRIC POWER CAPACITY IS DOUBLING EVERY SEVEN YEARS

Industry's Business Seen As Index of Prosperity

Question of Regulation or Government Ownership to Be Fought Out; Integration of Some Kind Needed to Realize Economics.

By IRVING FISHER
Professor of Economics, Yale University.

Special to The Washington Post.

New Haven, Conn., June 8.—Power, generated initially by coal, gas and waterfalls, and transmuted into electricity, is doubling in its application every seven years. Matthew S. Sloan, president of the National Electric Light Association, predicts that the next seven-year record will repeat the doubling of output and of generating plant capacity of the past seven years. In this year of business recession the public utilities are spending $900,000,000 for expansion which is the largest outlay for this purpose in their history. Of the two billions of bonds and stocks offered during the four months ended April 30, the share of domestic public utility financing was $728,000,000, or about 31 per cent.

Capital expenditures by the electric power and light companies for additions, betterments and new construction since 1924 have exceeded similar expenditures by the railroads. Three-quarters of our manufacturing industry is now electrified by almost automatic motors. By help of this process the industries are scattering among the smaller communities where land is cheap, power is rapidly extending to the farms and revolutionizing the conditions of town and country life. The utilities have reduced costs much more than they have reduced rates. They have merged, and they are still merging. Should this process go on?

Prices Indicate Anticipations.

Mr. Sloan, who is head of the Commonwealth-Edison Co., thinks it should go on. He deplores the holding up of the public utilities as plunderers of the public. He asks whether the public interest and needs can best be served by "hymns of hate and political campaigns against the utilities." Mr. Sloan calls for Government regulation, instead of "trust-busting."

But the advocates of public ownership point to the record of the public utilities in profits past, present and anticipated. The anticipated profits are indicated by the price of utility stocks. A recent compilation by Alfred J. Williams, including 12 of the largest operating units in public utilities, shows the price of stocks to be 25 times earnings. During 1929, Mr. Williams calculates that these companies earned 11.8 per cent on the new capital invested during that year.

With the volume of business growing at the rate of 7.5 per cent per annum, five years hence a theoretical investment of $100 would yield much more than 11.5 per cent if the utility companies continue to borrow half of their new capital on mortgage bonds at 5 per cent. The earnings would be the present 11.5 per cent plus the difference between 11.5 per cent and the 5 per cent cost of new bonds, or 18 per cent as the reward to the equity holder on the new capital he has furnished.

But both 11.5 per cent actual and 18 per cent anticipated returns, which warrant the price of utility stocks at 25 times earnings, are far above the 7 to 8 per cent "fair return" fixed in court decisions as the percentage of profits to which public utilities are entitled.

The Government ownership advocates, therefore, insist that public regulation fails to regulate the utilities. That is, it fails to exact of them low enough rates, in many cases, to assure the reasonable profits which are theirs and no more.

Integration Reducing Costs.

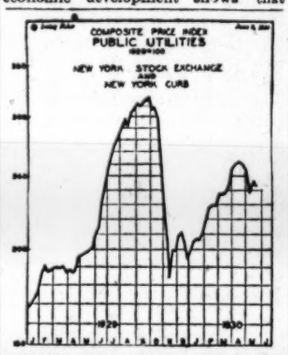
It is generally conceded that the utilities have themselves lowered their rates, and are continuing to do so. The process of integrating the power utilities has resulted in reduction of costs. A typical company which originally served twenty communities and had only 15,000 customers can serve today at greatly reduced unit costs a territory of 30,000 square miles spread over nine States and serving more than 13,000 communities and 600,000 customers. Science cooperating with enterprise has transformed the electrical industry. It has provided networks of pipelines to convey natural and artificial gas; reduced the poundage of coal per kilowatt of energy, and expanded sales enormously. All this means a reduction of costs, which the lowered rates bring about, in part, by increasing the market for the current.

A political struggle is imminent. The question whether the utilities shall be publicly owned or publicly regulated, and whether the companies are charging too much for their service, considering their lowered costs, must be fought out as a political question. Economically, it is requisite that these public services should be consolidated into large units controlled in the interest of the public in order that the utmost in economics and scientific development may be secured.

It is highly desirable that economic well-being continue to advance, which means increasing the national income. One of the most potent means to increase the national income and the degree of economic well-being is to increase the use of mechanical power.

Old Idea Much Changed.

The old idea in the public mind was that labor-saving machinery is the enemy of labor. But the history of economic development shows that wages have increased almost in proportion to the increase in the use of mechanical power to displace man's muscle power.



Public utility stocks, "big board" and curb combined, gained by 90 per cent in average price during 1929 up to September 27; lost by 42 per cent during the crash to November 15; rose by 32 per cent to May 23, 1930, recovering 44 per cent of their loss.

Steam and electricity more than all else have increased the workers' pay, shortened his working day, increased his leisure time, and revolutionized the world economically, socially and politically. In the short period between 1919 and 1925, inclusive, primary power per wage earner increased by 30.9 per cent, and this largely explains the even greater increase in productivity per wage worker—53.5 per cent between 1919 and 1927. In the United States, where power is most highly developed, wages are the highest in the world. In China, Mexico, India and other countries where power is least developed, wages are lowest. Horsepower used per worker therefore furnishes the best index of prosperity.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 8 (A.P.)—A $50,000,000 issue of Middle West Utilities Co. serial short term convertible gold notes, bearing 4½ and 5 per cent coupons, is being offered tomorrow to yield 4.50 to 5.625 per cent.

A special meeting of stockholders of American Color-Type Co. has been called for June 23, to vote on the directors' recommendation that the authorized common stock be increased from 150,000 to 300,000 shares. The company has reached an agreement for acquisition of American Art Works, Inc., of Coshocton, Ohio, and part of the new stock will be used for this purpose.

Arthur P. Smith has resigned as executive vice president of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co. of New York to become chairman of the board of International Bank Stocks Corporation, an investment trust.

Raw silk futures showed a pronounced change for the better on the National Raw Silk Exchange last week. After several weeks of consecutive new lows, the market for nearby positions firmed and the later deliveries also advanced. The recovery was based partly on a bullish consumption report and on the belief that unfavorable developments in Japan had been discounted by the recent slump here.

Net earnings of Standard Gas & Electric Co. and subsidiaries totaled $77,110,102 in the twelve months ended April 30, a gain of 5.08 per cent as compared with the previous twelve months.

COMMODITY GROUP PRICES TURN ABOUT

Those Strong Week Ago Drop Off, While Laggards Show Strength.

RATE OF FALL EASES

An about-face situation arose in the commodity price situation last week. Those groups of commodities that showed strength a week ago were forced off last week, while the laggers of the preceding week came about in good style.

The agricultural groups that had borne the brunt of the fall for the week ended May 30, did well in several individual items last week. The strength shown by eggs, hogs, lambs, butter, hams and sugar did much to hold the decline to respectable proportions, although not spectacular enough to cause a rise. The index for last week was off 0.44 per cent, compared with a drop of 1.72 per cent the preceding week.

Nonagricultural products dropped in such commodities as building materials, miscellaneous products, fuel and lighting and chemicals. Textiles and hides made slight gains.

Farm products continued to drop, going off 0.43 per cent. The purchasing power of farm products declined 0.28 per cent.

English Prices Continue Down.

English wholesale commodity prices continued sagging to a new low of 79.8, a loss of 0.37 per cent over the preceding week. The prices have been off for eight weeks.

German prices, however, showed the first improvement in nine weeks, going to 93.7. French prices dropped last week after three weeks of slight gain.

A lessening rate of fall was the outstanding feature of last week's movement of the wholesale commodity price level. The index, with a base of 1926 equaling 100, fell only 0.23 per cent to a mark of 87.6. This was the lowest weekly per cent change since the wek ended April 11. It had the effect of slowing the rate of fall so that where the weekly drop was averaging 0.56 per cent per week for seven weeks, it now is dropipng at a 0.23 per cent gait, bringing the rate for the past eight weeks down to 0.51 per cent.

Individual Items Increase.

Prices were comparatively active last week, with the total number of individual item price changes showing an increase of 24 per cent over the total for the preceding week. There was an increase of commodities showing a gain of 29 per cent, as compared with 20 per cent for the preceding week.

The purchasing power of the dollar, which rises by reason of price-level fall, reached a point where it is 14.2 cents above the 1926 level.

COOL DAYS DELAY GROWTH OF COTTON

All Sections in Belt Are Affected; Dry Weather in East Unfavorable.

HIGH WINDS HIT WHEAT

Last week's returns from the cotton belt indicated that coolness hindered growth in all sections, although lack of rain aided field work west of the Mississippi. Eastward, the continued dryness has made soil conditions definitely unfavorable.

High winds in northern areas of the spring wheat belt caused injury from soil blowing, but elsewhere condition of crop is fair to excellent. Spotty conditions prevail in Eastern winter wheat areas, but favorable weather elsewhere indicates the beginning of a good harvest within a fortnight.

Abnormally cool weather was unfavorable for corn last week. Planting had been satisfactory, but germination was unsatisfactory on account of low temperatures, necessitating considerable replanting and setting back the season. Replanting continues with warmer weather prevailing.

NEW YORK MARKET PRICES IN DECLINE

Prices Reflect Disappointment in Tardy Recovery of Business.

SHARES IN WEAK HANDS

By H. B. BROUGHAM
(Irving Fisher Service).

With its diminished activity last week, the stock market reflected only apathy and pessimism, born of disappointment over the tardy recovery of business. The upward trend in brokers' loans indicated, however, with the falling market, the passage of stocks from strong to weak hands; that is, to those who must borrow in order to buy.

The Irving Fisher index of all common industrials on the New York Stock Exchange closed last week off 3 per cent from the preceding week's close. The activity of this index for four weeks has been confined to a movement of less than six index points; it has twice shown rising trends and twice falling trends, closing last week less than an index point above May 9, when it recorded 149.4. Closing last week at 150.3, the level of industrial stock prices was 0.3 per cent below the previous low of 150.7 on May 19, and 2.9 per cent above the index of 146.1 on May 5, the lowest level since the 1930 high on April 11.

Of the 320 stocks quoted in the Fisher indexes, 56 per cent were off in price at last week's close; 12 per cent were up, and 32 per cent held steady.

Shrunken Stock Values Traded.

Values of stocks traded last week on the New York Stock Exchange continued their decline. On May 9, the average daily value of tradings had reached the 1930 peak, since then the waning interest in stocks is shown by the fall of 67 per cent in values traded during the past four weeks, from $331,500,000 to $108,100,000. Values of all industrials traded have followed the same trend, closing last week at $84,800,000, off 14 per cent from the previous week, but still above the level of January, 1930.

Four of the twenty groups made slight gains, with stores in the lead, while utilities again took the sharpest drop.

Foreign Prices Hit New Lows.

Paris stock prices continued downward to a new low of 126 last week, taking a loss of 3.4 per cent. This index has dropped 14.9 per cent in the last eight weeks, bringing it down 6 per cent below the 1929 low of 134.1 on November 29.

Stock prices in London followed this same trend by reaching the new low of 90.6, which was 3.4 per cent less than the preceding week. The previous low was 91.4 on December 27, which brings the present level 0.8 of a point lower. During the last

INDIANS RALLY IN 9TH TO WIN FROM NATS, 3 TO 2

SHARKEY HELD 8-TO-5 CHOICE IN FEW BETS ON THURSDAY'S BOUT

General Recognition as World Champion for Winner.

70,000 to See Bout for Title Vacated by Tunney.

By HERBERT W. BARKER.

NEW YORK, June 8 (A.P.).—The boxing industry, lacking a custodian for its most important title for almost two years, will elect one by acclamation on Thursday night. On that evening some 70,000 spectators will watch Jack Sharkey, of Boston, and Max Schmeling, of Germany, battle 15 rounds or less for the heavyweight championship Gene Tunney voluntarily yielded up on the last day of July, 1928.

Tunney's retirement from the ring that brought him fame and fortune broke beyond repair the direct line of succession to the heavyweight throne, but by almost common consent Sharkey and Schmeling have been adjudged the outstanding contenders and therefore entirely eligible to fight it out for boxing's greatest prize.

Dissenting votes have been cast in a few isolated instances, notably in Philadelphia, where recognition will be withheld until the winner of Thursday's match meets George Godfrew, giant Negro, and in England, where boxing authorities are of the opinion that Phil Scott, the London Fireman, still retains his status as a contender despite his knockout by Sharkey.

Recognition to Be General.

In the main, however, recognition will be accorded generally. The New York State Athletic Commisison and the National Boxing Association, both powerful bodies, have sanctioned the bout as a championship affair.

Provided the "house" reaches 70,000, the fight will gross approximately $600,000, of which Sharkey and Schmeling each will draw 25 per cent, or $150,000. Officials of Madison Square Garden have been optimistic enough to predict a "gate" of more than $700,000, but expert observers have subtracted $100,000 from this estimate and still see the possibility of being a trifle overgenerous. Whatever the receipts, the battle should provide a handsome profit for the milk fund, of which Mrs. Randolph Hearst is chairman.

What betting there has been—and it has been surprisingly little so far—has established Sharkey in the favorite's role at odds of 8 to 5, but the chances are that the two contenders will go into the ring at little better than even money. Sharkey has been an erratic performer for so long that fans have begun to expect him to fight a bad fight on the general principle that they will be pleasantly surprised if he fights a good one.

The Boston sailor tossed away his chances to meet Tunney in 1828, putting up such a miserable showing in the Garden's elimination tournament that Tom Heeney got the call only to be stopped in eleven rounds in Tunney's last ring appearance. In 1929, however, Sharkey showed to much better advantage, beating Young Stribling and K. O. Christner and knocking out Tommy Loughran, retired light heavyweight champion, in three rounds. He followed up these victories with his three-round knockout of Scott at Miami.

Schmeling Invaded U. S. in 1928.

Schmeling, after bowling over second rate competition in Germany for four years, came to the United States late in 1928 and has ben unbeaten in five starts in this country. He knocked out Joe Monte in eight rounds, Pietro Corbi in one and Johnny Risko in nine; and won on points from Joe Sekyra and Paulino Uzcudun.

In boxing skill, Sharkey will have a decided edge and the Boston sailor can hit as well. Schmeling, a weaving and bobbing fighter of the type of Jack Dempsey, carries dynamite in his right hand.

Sharkey at Orangeburg, N. Y., and Schmeling at Endicott, N. Y., both have trained well. Both plan to continue their preliminary workouts until Wednesday, the day before the fight. They wil lweigh in on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the stadium.

The supporting card includes ten-round bouts between Al Fay, of Carleroi, Pa., and Walter Cobb, of Baltimore, and Henry Lamar, Washington, and Mateo Ozra, Cuba. Paul Bianchi, of Argentina meets Stanley Parada, of Jersey City, in a six-rounder, and Ralph Ficucello, Brooklyn, takes on Piet Brand, of Holland, in the first six-rounder.

The big battle probably will begin between 8:30 and 9 o'clock, Eastern standard time.

Giants Defeat Cards, 4-1, for Eighth Straight

New York, June 8 (A. P.).—The Giants continued on their merry way by taking the third straight from the St. Louis Cardinals by a score of 4 to 1. It was the New Yorkers' eighth straight success and the Cardinals' twelfth loss in their last 13 games. Bill Walker, Giant left-hander, allowed the Cardinals but two hits, and their lone run was unearned. He fanned seven men.

Bill Terry's homer put the Giants in front in the third, while Allen's single with the bases full and two out clinched the game in the eighth.

Ray Blades, who scored the Cardinals' lone run, pulled up lame and was replaced by Watkins.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 8 (A.P.).—The Phillies routed the Reds, 9 to 2, in the second game of a doubleheader here today after dropping the first encounter, 5 to 4. LUQUE'S 4-HIT GAME STOPS CUBS, 6-0

Robins Support Star Hurler, Making 3 Double Plays.

BROOKLYN, June 8 (A.P.).—Adolfo Luque pitched a four-hit shutout over the Chicago Cubs today as the Robins increased their hold on first place to three full games by their second straight victory over the champions. The score was 6 to 0.

Teachout struck out six of the Robins and was fairly effective with men on bases, but Finn's double in the second inning was the significant hit of a three-run rally, and the Robins never relinquished their advantage. Bissonette was the leading hitter of the day with three clean drives.

Luque was effective throughout and seldom in trouble, although he was aided by three double plays, in all of which Finn served as the pivot man. No Cub advanced as far as third base.

Washington Red Sox Win in Annapolis

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 8.—Charlie Booker, Anne Arundel County boy, who twirls for the Washington Red Sox, was the whole show today as his team bested the Annapolis Club, 13 to 3, at the Annapolis baseball park. It was a tough inaugural for the home team as Booker kept their seven hits well scattered and fanned nine batters, in addition to fielding his position brilliantly. That was not all, however, for Booker hit two home runs and scored four tallies on as many hits. He gathered more runs himself than the entire Annapolis team.

It was mainly Booker's slugging that downed Annapolis, but Robbins, the visitor's brilliant little shortstop, also twinkled at field and at bat where he collected five consecutive bingles. Curtis' home run in the sixth with one on base finished the day for "Honk" Hollidayoke, the local team's crack right-hander.

Hollidayoke was never able to get settled. Booker knocked his first pitch for a single and sound blows by Bowie and Robbins resulted in two runs for the first three men to bat. Three home runs in one game set a new record at the local park.

NAT HURLERS PROBLEM TO JOHNSON

Marberry Is Probable Choice for Second of Series.

Special to The Washington Post.

CLEVELAND, O., June 8.—Manager Walter Johnson admits that he is up against his first real pitching problem of the season. With Fred Marberry, Lloyd Brown, Adolph Liska and Irving Hadley, especially the latter, needing work and two idle days just behind him, the Nat leader has been able to take no steps toward building up his staff which seemed to collapse in the late and lamented series with the Mackmen.

Last night, Johnson anounced that he planned to use Hadley today but, after thinking things over during the night, he decided that Hadley was the farthest away of any, in view of the fact that he has been nursing a sore arm, and decided to pass up the Lynn big boy for the time being and to concentrate on the others.

As a result of this decision, Liska was given the starting assignment this afternoon with Fred Marberry due to work tomorrow and the veteran "Sad Sam" Jones scheduled to toil on the slab in the get-away day, fracas here on Tuesday.

"I figure that my best bet is to try to get one or two back into winning from rather than to drag out the shifts and possibly not be able to give the whole four enough work to bring them back," said Walter.

Marberry Nears Best Form.

"Liska has done some of our best pitching while Marberry is getting nearer and nearer condition and it is my plan to try to get these two ready in games, with Brown and Hadley doing most of their work in the preliminary batting drills. I believe that this is the best plan to follow."

Jones, who returned today from his visit to his Woodsfield, Ohio, home, has particularly asked to be allowed to work in this series as he beleves that he can beat the Tribe. "When a pitcher feels this way, half the battle is won," Johnson remarked, "and that's why I am giving Jones a chance Tuesday, especially as the Indians seem to be particularly effective against southpaws this year. With Jones working in this series, I can get Brown ready to turn in a good effort in the coming set with Chicago, I hope."

Incidentally, the Nat leader intimated that he has been greatly disappointed in the work of Hadley and

SCHMELING DEFENDS HIS AMERICAN FIGHT RECORD

Halted Risko, Victor Over Sharkey

Believes Sailor Will Recal That Fact on Thursday.

Max Never Made Bet on Self; Through With Golf.

By MAX SCHMELING.
As Told to Jimmy Powers.

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 8.—I am supposed to feel inferior to my opponent, I read, because he has met so many big fighters like Jack Dempsey, Harry Wills, George Godfrey, Young Stribling, Phil Scott, Tommy Loughran, Mike McTigue and others whom I have not fought.

I have met only Joe Monte, Joe Seykra, Paulino Uzcudun and Johnny Risko. But I have a mental advantage in that last man, the Bohemian baker from Cleveland. I fought Risko and Sharkey fought Risko. I knocked out Risko and Risko beat Sharkey. I can not help but wonder if that is not firmly embedded in Sharkey's brain and when he enters the ring against me he can say to himself "now comes the man who licked the man who licked me."

That is something, my friends, and so I let them talk all they like about the big men Sharkey has fought. When it came down to a comparison of the one headliner we both met I won. So it might follow that everything Sharkey has done in the ring I might well have done also—and a little bit more.

Has Been Reading Books.

They tell me I am too plodding and too steady to win the championship. I have been reading three books which I have on the desk here. I do not want to be misunderstood. I am not reading for display. They are "Lincoln" and "Bismarck," both by Emil Ludwig, and "Stresemann" by Dr. Heinrich Bauer. I try to pattern my life after these three men. They were steady. They had balance and they forged ahead.

Some men are made to be brilliant, to advance in spurts with sparks flying. Others are steadier and not so flashy. I fight my own natural style. It may not be flashy but it wins for me and that is good enough. I know I weave and bob something like Dempsey. I do not hook like Dempsey and it is my ambition some day to have people calling other fighters a second Schmeling.

I never bet on myself in a fight. I have always confidence in myself but I never bet. I read where I have sent down $10,000 to New York to bet on myself. Even though the odds were 5 to 1 against me, and I saw a chance to win $50,000 for myself, I would not bet. On horses it is all right to bet. On man, I think different.

Eyes Are in Good Shape.

My eyes are in good shape now and I find myself weaving and dodging left hands much better. I have been very fortunate in being equipped with good eyes and good feet. I can see a golf ball lying on the fairway yards and yards away. I can sometimes see them much better than experienced caddies. If I can see a golf ball well I can also see a gloved fist coming.

Speaking of golf, I am through, now. Not that it is not a good sport. It is very good and I substituted it for my road work as I cover about 5 miles a day with an objective in view each time I see a fluttering red or silk flag on the green ahead. It is not as tiresome as road work and any time you can substitute an exercise and replace it with enjoyable sport do so. I find it best. But as the fight grows near I intend to conserve my energy, so, I regret to say, golf is out—especially 36 holes. That is a bit too much for me now. I must be careful.

2,800 Watch Sharkey Go 9 Rounds at Top Speed

Orangeburg, N. Y., June 8 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—More than 2,800, the largest crowd of Jack Sharkey's training period here, viewed his workout today. Newspapermen from all over the United States were present and the enthusiasm shown by the crowd in Sharkey's every action was ample indication that interest in the coming heavyweight title battle is mounting to high proportions.

It was speed that Sharkey emphasized in his nine rounds of boxing today, and he showed experts here that he has his footwork and agility to the point where he can set and keep a fast pace.

His left hook to the body found ample service Sharkey, however, was especially impressive in his accuracy and timing of punches. He missed seldom when he chose to land solidly on the heads and bodies of his sparring partners.

Sharkey announced after his workout that he will continue boxing tomorrow and Tuesday. The former pob tipped the scales at 198 pounds after today's stunts.

Commanderie Takes French Oaks Purse

Chantilly, France, June 8 (A.P.).—Commanderie, gray daughter of Belfonds out of Corcet, showed a clean pair of heels to 20 other fillies in the French Oaks at this ultrafashionable Parisienne track before a big and distinguished crowd today.

Commanderie, owned by Edouard Henriquet, won the $12,000 classic at odds of 6 to 1 by a length from Rosethe with the favored La Savoyard third. The race was over a course of 1½ miles.

The winner was ridden by the French jockey, Herve, who was opposed by the pick of the riders on the English turf, who took advantage of a day off from British tracks to cross the Channel and have a leg up on some of the favorites in the Oaks.

Joplin and Springfield In Horton Smith Feud

Joplin, Mo., June 8 (A.P.).—A civic argument between Joplin and Springfield, Mo., as to which has the stronger claim on Horton Smith is just about to come to blows at the behest of the great money golfer himself.

The plan, announced today, calls for no bodily injury, however, for the blows are to be spent in annual intercity golf competition for the Horton Cup donated by young Mr. Smith in the role of a diplomat. An Ozark feud had sprung from the debate over which city's environment had the more influence over Mr. Smith's golf par excellence. Springfield proves Horton swung clubs with promising precision as an obscure caddy at its country clubs, albeit he did so unbeknown to most of the populace then; Joplin comes right back and announces he got most of his early golfing laurels, plus cash, while pro at the Oak Hill Club here.

But, insists Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Smith, his father and mother, live in our town. However, yawns Joplin, Ren Smith, Horton's brother, is pro at Oak Hill now.

Horton wants the argument settled annually by ten-man golf teams representing his respective home towns. Rules of the International Walker Cup matches will govern.

SHORE WINS IN JUNIOR TENNIS

Defending Champion Defeats Stanton by 6—1, 6—2.

FRANK SHORE, defending champion and seeded No. 1, caught up with the rest of the favorites in the juniors District tennis championship tourney by winning his first-round match yesterday from Alfred Stanton, 6—1, 6—2.

The other stars played their first round matches on Saturday, all advancing to the second round.

Unless the dope fails, the favorites should continue their march to the finals in today's scheduled second round contests. Both boys and juniors will perform, starting at 4 p. m.

Frank Shore Seeded Number 1.

None of the seeded players in either division is paired against another, so the numbers of the favored group should remain the same. Eight are seeded in the junior section. They are Frank Shore, one; Barney Welsh, two; Jack Lynham, three; Richard Willis, four; Anthony Latona, five; Clyde Smith, six; Joseph Dial, seven, and John O'Hanlon, eight. The only seeded players among the boys are Jock McLean, one, and Gilbert Hunt, two.

The luck of the draw brings together two brothers, Nathan and Albert Ritzenberg, today in a boys' second round match, starting at 4 o'clock.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS representatives stand alone at the top of the District section of the Capital City League by virtue of yesterday's 8-to-6 twelve-inning conquest over the previously unbeaten Mohawks at Congress Heights. St. Joseph's A. C. ruined the unblemished record of the Anacostia Heights on the Plaza diamond by meting out a 12-to2 setback.

Foxall A. C. and Skinker Bros. Eagles scored their first victories of the series. The former upset the Aztecs, 14 to 5, and the Skinker clan humbled the Woodmen of the World, 13 to 9.

The Army Medical Center Nine furnished a surprise in taking the Burroughs A. A. outfit into camp, 8 to 6, to further scramble the situation.

Newman, Ruppert Aid Cause.

Helmie Newman did the hurling for the Columbia Heights aggregation nad did a good job after the fourth round. His mates had to wait until the twelfth round to send over the deciding tallies. Ruppert's double chased Newman across the platter with the winning tally.

Jack Farrington held the Anacostia Eagles to three hits while the Saint sluggers reveled at the expense of Pitchers Goodwyn and Brown.

Gorman's home run with the bases loaded in the first inning started the Skinker Eagles to victory. Bennie and Engars performed well afield and at bat. Williner and Nastorcco hit homers for the Woodmen.

Although touched freely, Lewis went the route for the Medicos and his mates hit timely to record their second straight victory. Caspar collected five hits in five tries for the Burroughs Team.

Foxall failed to score in all but two frames, collecting seven tallies in the sixth to clinch the verdict over the Aztecs, who found Burrows hard to solve in the closing rounds. Wesley and Mannix were hit at timely intervals by the victors.

Rain halted the contest at the end of the fifth inning. Willie Coleman, Rockville mound ace, held the opposition hitless.

The Bethesda Firemen also moved into the midst of the title scrap by turning back the Colonials, 14 to 7.

As the Takoma Tigers and Kensington Firemen were idle, the Rockville Club is a half game in front of the Tigers, with the Grays in third place, a half game in front of the Bethesda Team.

Manager Frank Valenza, of the Chevy Chase Grays, filed a protest last night, requesting that the Grays-Rockville game be replayed and claiming that umpires' decisions were improper.

SHOW GIRL — All Wrong! — By J. P. McEvoy and J. H. Striebel

PANAMA BECKONING TO OUTSIDE CAPITAL

Canal Republic Offers Good Field for Investment, Dr. Alfaro Says.

IMMIGRATION IS SOUGHT

(Associated Press.)

Panama was described as "something more than the land of the canal" yesterday by Dr. Richard J. Alfaro, Minister of Panama.

"Our future prosperity must needs be influenced by the existence of the great waterway," he said, speaking over a Nation-wide hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting System, "which is in itself a great market for our production. But we are endeavoring not to be dependent solely on the transit trade. East and west of the canal there is a wonderful country inviting good immigration and sound investment, and ready to repay bountifully every intelligent effort of industry and work."

"There are no two countries on the face of the earth which are so closely united as Panama and the United States," Dr. Alfaro said. "The construction of the Panama Canal has linked our destinies as tightly as are flesh and bone in the human body. The canal runs through our territory, and, besides being the most precious element in the commerce of the world, it is the most valuable asset of the United States outside of its own territory and the most vital spot of the American national defense.

"However, it must be remarked that the economic potentialities of Panama are not confined to its privileged geographic position. And while it is a fact that the Panamanian people have concentrated their activities upon trading with those who cross 'the bridge of the world,' it is none the less true that they are awakening to the realization of the almost unbounded possibilities awaiting those who will cultivate our soil and extract from it the many riches it contains."

The Panama Minister, speaking on "Panama Day of the Weekly Conclave of Nations Series," was introduced by Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada. The program included, also, musical selections by two Panama artists, Alcides Briseno, concert barytone and recording artist, and G. O. Pamos, tenor.

RAIL BONDS IN LEAD IN GREATER TRADING

U. S. Government Securities Near This Year's Highs in New York.

DAILY VALUE INCREASED

The average daily value of all the bonds traded on the New York Stock Exchange last week increased 5 per cent over the preceding week—the first increase since the week of May 8.

The Irving Fisher All-Bond Index closed the week at 101.1, a gain of only .06 per cent over the week before. Activity was slight during the week, as 46 per cent of the 70 bonds in the index showed no change in the week's closing, while 33 per cent gained, and 21 per cent lost. For five weeks the average has been slightly up or steady.

Rails showed the greatest increases of the week in the various groups. In the daily index first-grade rails held steady and second grade gained by .33 per cent. After rising for five weeks the weekly average of first-grade rails dropped 0.1 point, but the second grade average was steady. Public utilities closed at the same price as the week before, showing only slight variations in the last three weeks. Foreign government and United States Government bonds were up .03 and .04 per cent, respectively. The index of United States Government bonds on June 3 reached 100.8, the highest point since March 21, which was only 0.1 point below the 1929-30 high of 100.9 on March 14, 1930. The only group to drop off was industrials and they lost only .07 per cent. For four weeks the averages of industrial bond prices have remained steady.

eight weeks this price has fallen off 9 per cent.

Berlin average stock prices lost 2.3 per cent last week, with the index reaching 88.2. Contrasting with the Paris and London indexes, the Berlin index is 6.3 per cent above the 1929-30 low of 83 on March 21, 1930.

The index of 225 industrial common stocks shows what a substantially representative $100 worth of stocks in 1926 would now amount to if held unchanged since that year. This index is weighted by shares outstanding. The index of "50 most active," or market leaders, shows the result of reinvesting the $100 every week in the market favorites of that week. This index is weighted by shares traded, the list changing weekly. The last column of the table gives the average yield per cent on these weeks' 50 leaders at current prices.

Price Decline in All Stocks.

Last week on the New York Stock Exchange saw the third definite decline in stock prices since the year's high in April. All of the graded groups opened the week steady, after a two-days holiday. But with the exception of Wednesday, when investment stocks made a slight advance and the remaining two graded groups were steady, they have been off all week, closing with a definite loss from the previous week's close.

Speculative stocks made the best showing last week, off but 2.6 per cent, while investment and semi-investment stocks dropped 3 per cent. The week's close in investment and speculative stocks was above the low of the last slump, which terminated in the week of May 23.

Below are shown index numbers of prices of common industrials on the New York Stock Exchange, arranged in classes derived from Moody's ratings.

Money in Circulation in United States

In the United States the total amount of circulating money media amounts to approximately $8,500,000,000. Of this about $7,000,000,000 are bank deposits subject to check; $1,000,000,000 consists of fiduciary money (bills, minor coins, &c.); and only $500,000,000 is primary money, or gold coins.

Spender Has Advantage.

It is a well-known fact that the man who spends much, though he needs to carry more money than the man who spends little, does not have to carry as much in proportion to his expenditure. This is because the larger any operation is, the more economically it can be managed.

Money Has Taken Different Forms.

Money has not been exclusively in the form of coins and bills. Nuggets and gold dust were used on frontiers. In the Colony of Virginia money took the form of tobacco; it was wampum among the New England Indians. Once in California red birds' heads were used.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS.

The dog-muzzling law is now in force, and all dogs when on the street or in other public places must wear a muzzle, unless on leash accompanied by some one. The Humane Society regards this as a cruel and unnecessary law, but it should be obeyed until October 1 next. Therefore the society earnestly advises all owners, when taking their dogs out, to leave off the muzzle, but have the animal on a leash and under full control.

BIBLE CLASSES END CONVENTION'S TERM UPHOLDING DRY LAW

Full Cooperation Urged for Celebration of Washington Bicentennial.

SUNRISE PENTECOSTAL SERVICE IS STAGED

Special Sermons Relating to Session's Work Heard in Many Churches.

With the adoption of a resolution pledging support "to the duly elected representatives of the people and officers of the Government in the maintenance and observation of the laws pertaining to the prohibition amendment and all other laws of the land," the seventh annual convention of the National Federation of Men's Bible Classes reached its conclusion at the Wasnington Auditorium yesterday.

The resolution added that "we heartily commend the unswerving fidelity of President Herbert Hoover to the laws and institutions of our country, who, by example and precept, is endeavoring to carry out the will of the people."

The convention also urged all men's Bible classes to encourage their members to give fullest response to every appeal for cooperation from the bicentennial commission or its State or local subsidiaries for the national celebration in 1932 of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

Pentecostal Anniversary Held.

A sunrise Pentecostal anniversary service held at Temple Heights, Connecticut avenue and Columbia road, opened the final day of the convention at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. About 1,500 Bible students attended this service, which was conducted by the Rev. B. H. Melton, president of the Ministerial Union, and which commemorated the nineteen hundredth anniversary of the institution of the Church of Christ.

Bible class sessions were held at various churches in the District at 9:30 o'clock, and at 11 o'clock convention sermons were preached by visiting or resident pastors in Calvary Baptist Church, First Congregational Church, Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South, Luther Place Memorial Church, Metropolitan M. E. Church, National Baptist Memorial Church and New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Many of the 2,000 or more delegates already having entrained for home, attendance at the final auditorium session at 2 o'clock was rather light.

Long Service Opens Session.

This session was opened with a song service, followed by announcements by President Joseph B. Montgomery and the introduction of newly-elected officers for the coming year who were named on Saturday. After a scripture reading by Chaplain Julian E. Yates, of the Army, and a prayer by Rev. J. Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, an offering was taken to provide funds for furthering the work of the federation.

A brief address by Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, who indorsed the principles and activities of the federation, was followed by prayer and the singing of hymns, after which the convention closed with pronouncement of the benediction.

DR. SIZOO PREACHES TO G. W. U. SENIORS

Reshaping of World Lies in Present Generation's Hands, He Says.

500 TO GET DEGREES

"In the hands of the generation of today lies the rebuilding and reshaping of the world," Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo told members of the graduating classes of the George Washington University at the baccalaureate services held yesterday afternoon at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. The dawn of a better day is largely in the hands of those who are graduating this year and in the next ten years to come, because they have experienced none of the passions, hate and anger of the days of the war, and hence have the poise and balance of a life free from this passion and hate, Dr. Sizoo said.

Taking his text from Exodus, second chapter, eleventh verse, Dr. Sizoo urged the graduates, like Moses, to "go out unto the world and look upon its burdens." The great need of the world, he said, is for men who are prepared for the responsibilities of life to look upon the world in sympathy and understanding and with deep appreciation, and to try to solve its problems.

"America has a passion for education. It would be difficult to believe the vast expenditures of wealth gladly set aside for the maintenance of educational enterprises. The most striking contribution of America to the life of the modern world is its investment in and passion for education. This means vast culture, efficient leadership and stability of Government, for wherever men have thought, the inroads of communism need never be feared."

The baccalaureate services were a part of the senior week program of the university. This afternoon the graduates will be entertained at a reception at the Washington Club by the President of the University and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin. Tomorrow night class night exercises will be held and the following evening the commencement ceremonies will take place in Constitution Hall. Approximately 500 degrees will be conferred at that time.

Man Arrested as Machine Hangs Balanced Over 30-Foot Drop.

A colored man was arrested early yesterday mroning after he narrowly escaped death when his speeding car stopped with the front wheels hanging over a 30-foot embankment at Twenty-seventh and L streets northwest. The man, who was arrested by Private J. O. Hite, of the Traffic Bureau, gave his name as William Garner, 34 years old, of Twenty-seventh street near I street northwest.

Hite said he took up the chase early yesterday morning when a speeding car containing three colored men passed him at Eighteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. On Twentieth street near L street the car attempted to crowd him to the curb, he said, and on L street near Twenty-first street a half-gallon jar, supposed to contain liquor, was thrown at him, narrowly missing his head.

At Twenty-seventh street L street ends in a 30-foot drop to Rock Creek. The car stopped with the front wheels hanging over the sheer drop. Garner's companions escaped, but he was charged at Third Precinct with investigation. The car is said to have been reported stolen from Maryland a short time before Hite sighted it.

Clothing Thieves Break Case.

Wearing apparel valued at $15 was stolen early yesterday from a showcase in front of the store of Morris E. George, 915 Seventh street northwest. The thieves hurled a stone through the showcase.

CHURCH CELEBRATES 61 YEARS OF HISTORY

Mt. Vernon Place Removal to Present Site Marked by Congregation.

DR. BARTHOLOW SPEAKS

The congregation of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church yesterday celebrated the sixty-first anniversary of the removal of the church from its original site to its second home on the northeast corner of Ninth street and Mount Vernon place northwest. Dr. Otho F. Bartholow, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., founder of the National Federation of Men's Bible Classes, now in session in Washington, preached the sermon.

Dr. Bartholow's Bible class in Mount Vernon numbers 2,000 men. The average attendance is 800, he said. On Fridays he has a class for women that draws about 600. Dr. Bartholow, who is in Washington attending the convention of the federation, complimented the church on the fine building it occupies.

Several men and women who were in the procession of removal from the tiny wooden church at 919 M street northwest in 1869 were present yesterday. Among them were J. Everett Baird, of 2607 Thirty-sixth place northwest, and John M. Follin, of 3535 Thirteenth street northwest. Mrs. W. W. Millan, daughter of Fred A. Stier, at that time cashier of the Lincoln National Bank, was in the procession but was too ill to attend the services yesterday.

The church to which the removal was made was diagonally across the street from the present church. The new church was first used in 1918. Yesterday, the day of celebration, was also the 1900th anniversary of the day of Pentecost.

TRADE STIMULATED BY WARM WEATHER

Summer Slump in Manufacturing Activities Now Approaching.

STEEL OPERATIONS CUT

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—Retail trade was quickened somewhat by extremely warm weather during the past week and some improvement in collections was reported from mercantile circles, but the summer slump in manufacturing activity appeared to be approaching with unusual swiftness.

The United States Steel Corporation reduced its mill operations from 70½ to 75 per cent of capacity, an unusually sharp decline, and the industry as a whole slackened operations to between 71 and 72 per cent of capacity. A sustaining factor, however, was an increasing demand for steel pipe for natural gas and oil lines. Orders have reached an unprecedented volume. Furthermore, steel and iron prices were perhaps a little steadier. Pig iron sagged, but heavy melting steel scrap turned upward for the first time since February. It was reported in trade circles, however, that the trend of production remains decidedly downward, and some observers would not be surprised to see U. S. Steel at 60 per cent of capacity before the expected late summer revival sets in.

Auto Curtailment Awaited.

Although some automobile manufacturers are maintaining fairly active schedules during June, there has been a general reduction, which the trade expects will become pronounced by July. Production is now reported to considerably below sales and there appears to be a desire to get dealers' inventories thoroughly cleaned in preparation for model changes and the seasonal summer slack. Textile, lumber and several other branches of industry continued to curtail activity.

Although prices for some commodities stiffened somewhat, primarily in foodstuffs, the commodity price structure continued to present a confusing picture. Wheat reached the best levels since April, but failed to hold its gains. Silver again broke sharply, reaching the lowest levels on record, with consequent disturbance of the cotton markets and trade with a large part of the Far East, but rallied a little late in the week.

Sugar and Rubber Prices Drop.

In addition to silver, sugar and rubber sagged to the lowest levels in recent years. Refined sugar was cut to 4½ cents a pound, the lowest in ten years, and several rubber manufacturers reduced tire prices about 5 per cent, generally to the lowest levels in the history of the tire industry. Raw silk also reached a new low. In the petroleum industry production gained a little, but prices remained firm.

It was notable, however, that Finance Minister Inouye, of Japan, the important industrial nation probably most seriously affected by the break in commodities, particularly silk and silver, was quoted as saying that he expected the decline to run its course by July. He saw signs that both silver and silk prices were reaching bottom, and predicted improvement in cotton textiles, barring a bumper cotton crop in America.

Freight car loadings, as reported for the latest week, showed a slight gain from the previous week, but held at the lowest since 1924. Failures as reported for the month of May by R. G. Dun & Co. showed a decline from April, and were the smallest since December, but were abnormally high for May. Credit remained plentiful, reflecting primarily the scant demand. Bankers' acceptance rates were reduced to 2¼ bid for the shorter dates, the lowest in six years.

CATHOLIC U. HOLDS GRADUATION MASS

Baccalaureate Sermon Is Delivered by Rev. Furfey, Member of Faculty.

40 WILL BE ORDAINED

Baccalaureate Sunday was observed at Catholic University yesterday by a mass in the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception which was attended by the student body and faculty, numbering 800.

The Right Rev. Monsignor Patrick J. McCormick was celebrant of the mass. The Rev. Paul Furfey instructor of sociology at the university, delivered the sermon.

This morning at 6:45 o'clock Bishop John M. McNamara will ordain 40 priests. On Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock Bishop McNamara will elevate a group of 30 to the priesthood. Minor orders were conferred on 106 seminarians on Friday and Saturday by the bishop. Candidates included students of the Franciscan, Dominican, Augustinian, Holy Cross, Marist, Sulpician, Oblate and Secular orders. All elevations took place in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

Commencement week will end Wednesday morning when degrees will be conferred upon 100 graduates by Archbishop Michael J. Curley, chancellor of the university. Exercises will be held at 10:30 o'clock in the gymnasium following an academic procession. Prof. Charles G. Fenwick, of Bryn Mawr College, will deliver the baccalaureate address. John W. Clay, of Cumberland, Md., will give the valedictory.

Don't Shy at Lipstick, Pastor Advises Flock

Rev. Harold E. Beatty Urges Sprucing Up as Spiritual Aid.

Personal appearance in religion, a unique theme for a sermon, was the topic discussed at the Georgetown Lutheran Church Sunday night by the pastor, the Rev. Harold E. Beatty. His text was from the Old Testament: "For man looketh on the outward appearance." I Samuel xvi: 7

Mr. Beatty spoke in part as follows:

"Our world is exquisitely adorned, and always appropriately so to the changing seasons. Spring and summer, in living green, autumn changes to golden, and winter takes on the somber and the silvern. The beasts of the forest wear the variegated velvet, the birds the colorful plumage, and the lily of the field is dressed up better than Solomon. That black is the accepted color for the professional and the dignified may be a relic of heathendom. Black is the color of darkness, and the symbol of death. White is the color of light, and is the emblem of purity, truth, victory.

"Like Attracts Like."

"In the mirror of the Gospel, I see the Man of Galilee in the day of His humiliation, wearing the dark robe, but on the mountain top of glory, 'His garment became exceedingly white, as white as snow.' And in the day of His royalty He is clothed in a vesture red as blood. Wherefore, with these examples in nature and in Revelation, how can I be indifferent to outward appearances, even in my own life?

"It is said that when the barbarians overran ancient Greece they were somewhat subdued, refined, because of the influence of the beautiful. 'Like attracts like.' A chameleon on a green leaf is green, on a brown rock is brown, on red clay is red. Are not the most of us chameleons? The old psychology said it was heredity; the new says it is environment. What is right? Both. Heredity influences environment and environment influences heredity and therefore influences me. 'What can I do? Dress up, shine up, spruce up.

"And now in the realm of the moral, 'Abstain from all appearance of evil.' What does that mean? If I find it is my duty to go to a questionable place to transact a matter of business, should I go? Yes, positively. But here is the point; let me look well to my conduct while I am there. And how? By guarding it before I go. On the battlefield, sometimes among the rough, even the vulgar, her strong, lovely character was abundant protection to Florence Nightingale.

Don't Undervalue Compact.

"Jesus of Nazareth mingled with 'publicans and sinners,' even with the outcast, but even until this day, He not only persists in the question, 'Which of you convinceth Me of sin?' but he also proclaims, 'I am the Truth.'

"And now in the realm of the spiritual. Here is the all-important question: How may I appear in public and in private? How can I attain? How can I stand before God and man?

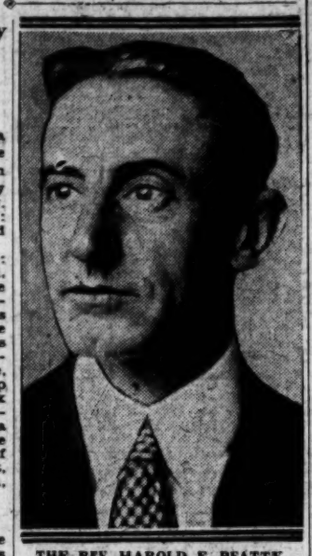
"The beauty specialists are in demand today. Do not undervalue the contents of the compact. And exercise? Most assuredly. I live now near a police precinct. I notice these stalwart men are lined up every morning, with coats off, doing their daily dozen. And why? Because the rounds on their daily beats do not exercise certain muscles. Different exercise for different muscles. Inhale, exhale? Sure. Lung bathing aplenty. And Fletcherize as well as Hooverize.

One Can Change One's Life.

"Can I change my appearance? Yes. Can I change my face? Yes. Can I change my environment? Yes. Can I change my life? Yes.

"A certain writer tells that when he was a boy, his father hung up in the dining room a lovely picture of an outdoor scene: meadows, trees, streams, flowers. But as you looked at it, all converged toward the center and formed a face. It was the face of Jesus.

"We all with unveiled face beholding as in a mirror, the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image."



THE REV. HAROLD E. BEATTY.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

—By JOHN J. DALY—

NOW come the National Theater Players with a play just a bit out of the ordinary—"The Bachelor Father." It came out of the Belasco workshop and though it has quite a twist and turn to it the deft handling of what might be called an embarrassing situation proves delightful comedy rather than bawdiness. In fact, the sins of the bachelor father are quite forgiven because of his generous heart. When last seen here, C. Aubrey Smith played the title role in this comedy.

Yesterday most of the cast and many friends of the National Theater Players journeyed down the bay to Mr. Stephen Cochran's place, Runnymeade Harbor, where refreshments were served—plenty of crustaceans from the briny, oceans of iced tea, lots of lemonade, and a little swimming on the side. There was just one man absent, Mr. Romaine Callender. A serious student, when he is studying his parts, Mr. Callender never lets anything stand in the way of his studies. Paraphrasing Shakespeare, he says: "The part's the thing."

John Drinkwater's comedy, "Bird in Hand," which has been running on Broadway since April 4, 1929—a long, long run—has come to the end of the lane. Also, Mr. Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book," rated as one of the best pieces this impresario ever sponsored, goes the way of all flesh. It left the ranks on Saturday night. Will Mahoney, that exceedingly fine comic, seen so many times here in the old Keith vaudeville house, must now find another outlet for his talents.

As things stand, the oldest play on Broadway to date is Papa Belasco's comedy, with which he opened the season, "It's a Wise Child." An old-time National Theater player, Minor Watson, formerly leading man here, has an important role in "It's a Wise Child," which, rumor hath it, is also about to depart from the Street of Streets. In a little while there will be none of the old plays left on Broadway, an old play being one that has weathered four or five months.

If there is any Washington girl who looks and acts like Lillian Gish here is a chance to be starred. It seems that Miss Gish is preparing for a European trip, in which event she will leave the cast of "Uncle Vanya." That being so, the producers want some one to take her place, for this Chekov play is a success in New York and good business demands that it remain. On the other hand, artistry requires some one with the Gish flair to take the Gish place, as Helena.

CORNER STONE LAID FOR FIRST BUILDING IN G. U. QUADRANGLE

Mgr. C. F. Thomas Officiates in Simple Ceremony at Copley Hall.

STRUCTURE TO PRESERVE HISTORY OF UNIVERSITY

Decorations to Memorialize Founders of Institution in Baltimore's Day.

Less than a year after plans for a memorial quadrangle to honor the founders of Georgetown University were projected, the corner stone of Copley Hall, the first unit of the proposed group of college buildings at the Hilltop, was laid yesterday with simple ceremony.

Mgr. C. F. Thomas, rector of St. Patrick's Church, officiated in the presence of a group of officials and alumni who earlier in the day had attended the baccalaureate mass as a part of the commencement program. After blessing the stone, which contains records of the university, copies of local newspapers and othe mementoes associated with the building, Mgr. Thomas used a silver trowel to apply the cement. This trowel, a gift to Georgetown from the architect, will have engraved on it the names of other buildings in the group as they are erected in the future.

Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, explained that Copley Hall, named after one of the founders associated with the Lord Baltimore Colony, would memoralize in stone decorations much of the history of Georgetown. Memorial shields over the doorways, he said, would bear the names of early students who had gained fame in the twelve professions, excluding the sciences, for which a separate science hall is to be erected later.

New Dormitory Inspected.

Among the names of those who served in the Navy, he said, would be that of Admiral Charles Borman, an ancestor of Mgr. Thomas. Admiral Borman's father is buried in the faculty cemetery. "We feel, therefore, that Mgr. Thomas' heart will be in the building," President Nevils said.

Another among thos attending the exercises whose ancestors were associated with Gorgetown's founders was Rev. Weld-Blundell of the Catholic University, a Benedictine superior. It was at Stonyhurst, the ancestral home of the Weld family in England, given to the Jesuits as a school, that John Carroll, Georgetown's principal founder, was consecrated first archbishop of Baltimore.

The new senior dormitory, which the visitors inspected in the course of its construction, will be five stories high and contan 148 suites of rooms.

The structure is being built with a stone exterior and will contain also the W. Reynolds Memorial Chapel, the recent gift of Countess de Janze, of Paris, and named after a former member of the faculty.

Reception for Alumni.

Georgetown again was the scene of activities last night when Dr. Nevils held a reception for visiting alumni and the seniors, followed by a glee club concert and genereal reunion in the college quadrangle.

Dahlgren Chapel was crowded yesterday morning for the baccalaureate service at which the Rev. Timothy B. Barrett, S. J., archivist of the university and a graduate of Gonzaga College in this city, preached the sermon to the graduating class.

The service was featured by a Gregorian mass, composed by Prof. Edward P. Donovan, teacher of music at Georgetown, and sung by the choir of St. Paul's Church, of which Prof. Donovan is director. This mass, approved by the arch-diocesan board of liturgical music, was submitted as a thesis for a degree of doctor of music which Prof. Donovan is to receive at today's commencement exercises.

Following tradition at Georgetown, the seniors and members of the faculty, in cap and gown, marched in academic procession to the chapel, headed by the president, regents and deans of the various departments of the university.

Rev. Edward Roach, of St. Matthew's Church, an alumnus of Georgetown, was celebrant at the mass. He was assisted by Rev. John O'Connor, deacon, and Rev. Thomas J. Stokes, sub-deacon, members of the college faculty.

Diplomas to Be Given Today.

Father Barrett, who is also connected with the Jesuit house of studies at Woodstock, Md., directed the attention of the senior class to bear in mind the spiritual values of life when they leave the college halls. "Nothing counts, divinely speaking, but right and God," he said, in telling them that they were going out into the world "after four years companionship with Christ."

Diplomas will be presented to a graduating class of 501 seniors at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon at the final commencement exercises. This is one of the largest classes to graduate from Georgetown in recent years.

Dr. Peter Guilday, professor of church history in the Catholic University, will deliver the commencement address and also will receive from Georgetown its highest honorary degree, that of doctor of civil and canon laws. It is being conferred on him in recognition of his eminence in that field which has extended to European studies and also, for a more personal reason, because of his recent history of the "Life and Times of John Carroll," Georgetown's founder and first archbishop of Baltimore.

Two other persons equally distinguished in their particular fields of medicine and long time members of the university faculty will receive honorary degrees of doctor of laws. They are Dr. William Gerry Morgan, who is president of the American Medical Association, and Dr. Charles Maddox Hammett, specialist in ophthalmology. Both are on the staffs of the medical school and hospital.

Abandoned Infant Snares Hearts of Hospital Nurses

Police Start Search for Couple Who Left Baby Boy With Colored Woman Promising to Return for Him in Two Days and Pay Board.

An infant, christened at Children's Hospital as "Billy Jones," is winning the hearts of all the nurses as search is in progress for the white couple who abandoned him Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Julia Bell, 70 years old, colored, of 25 N street southeast.

Mrs. Bell told police that the infant was left in her care by a young man with whom she had transacted business on a few occasions, although she does not know his name. At the time of the abandonment, Mrs. Bell told the authorities, the man was accompanied by a young white girl.

When the baby was placed in Mrs. Bell's care the man admonished her to give it the best of care. Mrs. Bell declined to accept any pay for boarding the child, she said. The couple told her they would return for the child on Saturday.

Their absence on Saturday and yesterday alarmed the elderly colored woman and she communicated with headquarters. Detective Sergt. H. E. Ogle investigated and found that the child was expensively clothed. Mrs. Bell was unable to give a description of the car in which the couple drove to her home, except to say that it was a small machine.

Extra clothes were given to Mrs. Bell for the child. The colored woman offered to continue to care for the infant if the police would consent, but they placed the baby in the custody of the Women's Bureau, who brought it to the hospital.
